Britain, France In Agreement On Aid Plan

PARIS, June 18 —(AP)— France and Britain agreed today to convoke a European economic commission to draft an over-all recovery and reconstruction program to implement State Secretary Marshall's offer of United States aid to Europe.

A spokesman for the French cabinet said the two countries were to send a joint invitation to Russia to participate in his commission's work.

He reported the agreement on formation of the economic commission was reached by Foreign Minister Bidault and Foreign Secretary Bevin in conversation here today.

THE FRENCH cabinet then voted formal approval of the Anglo-French alliance, signed this spring in Dunkerque. The alliance provides for the closest possible economic co-operation.

In his June 4 address, Marshall invited Europeans to take the initiative in drafting an over-all continental rehabilitation program in which the United States would help. The French Monday proposed publicly that the job be handled by specialized committees on transport, fuel and energy, agriculture and iron and steel.

IN WASHINGTON yesterday, Alberto Tarchiani, Italian ambassador to the United States, said Italy was "ready to collaborate" in formulating a program "on a basis of equality" with other European nations.

France's elder statesman Socialist ex-Premier Leon Blum, writing in his newspaper, Le Populaire, said that "the response of France can only be, to my way of thinking, a clear, frank and prompt adhesion, without restriction or dilatory complications."

Freight Returns Of CPR are Up

While the net revenue of the railway is down due to increased operating costs, returns from freight are above last year and in general business is holding up well with no sign of a recession, L. B. Unwin, vice-president of finance for the Canadian Pacific Railway, said in an interview here Wednesday.

Mr. Unwin said that passenger revenue and volume have dropped over last year on the CPR because of the ending of service personnel movements, but in the main business of the railway is holding up well.

"I see no sign of a recession this year," he stated.

Mr. Unwin expressed keen interest in oil developments in the Leduc area. He said the development there will mean much to Alberta if a second Turner Valley results, as now seems likely.

Also a vice-president of the jointly owned Northern Alberta Railways, Mr. Unwin conferred with officials of that railway here Wednesday.

He also visited offices of the CPR in the city.

He plans to leave Edmonton Thursday to continue his routine inspection of company districts in the west he has just returned from Vancouver.

Head offices of Mr. Unwin are in Montreal.

Vigorous Immigration Policy Is Demanded

OTTAWA, June 18 (CP)— The Canadian Chamber of Commerce called today for "a vigorous immigration policy immediately." Its written views were read into the record of the Senate immigration committee by Chairman Senator James Murdock (L.-Ontario). It said:

"THIS COUNTRY needs and can support a very much greater population and the present opportunity may be the last in which we can freely choose the immigrants.

"Canada was built by the energy, skill and initiative of immigrants and her future growth will be accelerated by bringing in those with technical and scientific skills and experience as well as those prepared for labor on the farms and in the factories.

"Production will be increased, the standard of living raised and employment expanded if selected immigrants are encouraged to come to Canada to assist our people develop their opportunities. Canadians should think of immigration policies with confidence that, the more there is produced the more there is to share, and not on the old basis that the fewer the people the more for each."

THE CHAMBER urged the government to adopt immediately "a positive long-term policy of encouraging the movement to Canada of desirable immigrants from abroad. Such a policy must be based on Canada's economic needs and the maintenance of an appropriate balance between our agricultural and industrial requirements."

ANKARA, June 18.—(AP)—Maj.-Gen. Lunsford Oliver, United States military mission chief, told newspaper men last night that Turkey's military forces are strong on manpower but weak on equipment, and asserted that the $100,000,000 United States aid grant would serve as a "start for a modern army."

Cabinet Approves Salary Increases

Upward revision of the salary schedule for Alberta civil servants in the lower salary brackets, has been approved by the cabinet, Premier Ernest Manning announced Wednesday.

Plea of the Civil Servants Association for inclusion of the cost-of-living bonus in salary schedules was also granted by Tuesday's cabinet meeting, Mr. Manning announced.

Certain discrepancies in salary schedules between single and married employees were also to be ironed out by the Civil Service Commission.

There was no decision on the request made by the association for a five-day week.

Those who are to receive salary boosts will get them retroactive to April 1, Mr. Manning said, so civil servant pay cheques for the months of June and July will include the new salary for those four months.

The "increased cost of living and the excellent service employes have given the government" were the guiding factors in the decision of the cabinet to grant the increases, Mr. Manning pointed out.

It does not apply to employes of the Workmen's Compensation Board nor the Alberta Liquor Control Board, the premier revealed, but the Civil Service Commission has been asked to make a review of the needs of those employes.

Minimum salaries have been raised for unmarried persons from $1,500 according to one government official. Minimum for married male employes is set at $1500.00.

Food for Reich

Explosion Foils Irgunist Plot Against British

JERUSALEM, June 18 — (BUP)— A terrific blast attributed tentatively to the Jewish Underground army Hagana today wrecked a stronghold of the Irgun Zvai Leumi faction in Tel Aviv, where police said a plot was hatching to blow up nearby British security headquarters.

The explosion killed at least one person and demolished the basement of a three-storey apartment house less than 20 yards from the gates of the Citrus House, the heart of the British security zone.

Police said a note found near the scene said "Hagana has just been here."

THEY SAID it apparently meant Hagana had thwarted an Irgunist scheme to blow up the Citrus House in reprisal for the death sentences of three Irgunists last Monday.

From the blasted hideout a tunnel had been dug under a road to a spot near the Citrus House. Officials conjectured that it was intended for use in what might have been one of the greatest disasters of Palestine's bloody history.

Hagana is the most moderate of the three factions of the Jewish underground, and frequently has counselled Palestinian Jews to eschew violence against the British on the grounds that it could only damage the Jewish cause. The Irgunists, on the other hand, are the most militant of the three, with the Stern group somewhere in between.

THE FLAREUP came a day after the underground warned that it would brook no delay in the commutations of the death sentences given three of its members by a British military court Monday.

Varied Reaction Greets Labor Act

OTTAWA, June 18.—(CP)—The leaders of Canada's two major central unions declined to definitely commit themselves prior to detailed study of the government's new labor code, but in preliminary comment they said it "appears grossly inadequate" and the other said "it doesn't sound too bad."

Both Pat Conroy, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, and Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said they would like more time to study the new code following its introduction in the Commons yesterday by Labor Minister Mitchell.

Said Mr. Bengough:

"From a preliminary study of the new federal labor code it doesn't sound too bad, but we would want to make a detailed study of all the 'ifs and ands.' I would say, however, that it sounds as if it could be a lot worse. . . ."

Mr. Conroy said the labor code "appears grossly inadequate both as to the provisions desired by labor and by the scope of its coverage."

Serious Boxcar Shortage Feared

BY VICTOR MACKIE

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 18.—A critical freight car shortage, even more serious than existed last year, will develop on Canadian rail lines this fall, tying up overseas grain shipments if the anticipated movement of feed grains and wheat from the west materializes, B. S. Liberty, car coordinator for the Dominion government said Wednesday.

Old freight cars are wearing out and being scrapped by Canadian railways at a faster rate than they can be replaced with new equipment. Outcome will be the year's end will see fewer box cars in operation than were available last fall, the controller predicted. Canadian-owned freight cars of all types totalled 160,629 at June 1.

"The boxcar shortage will be very serious unless the eastern feed crop situation improves. There is little we can do at the present. The shortage will develop depending upon production of feed grains," said Mr. Liberty.

Terracini, who said that he and Premier Alcide de Gasperi had conferred with de Nicola, gave ill health as the reason for de Nicola's decision.

To Regulate Industry

Ottawa to Establish Dominion Coal Board

By George Kitchen

OTTAWA, June 18 —(CP)— A searching analysis of the many problems facing Canada's coal mining industry was placed before the Commons yesterday by Reconstruction Minister Howe as preliminary approval was given government legislation to establish a Dominion coal board to deal with the difficulties.

IN A 2,500-WORD statement, Mr. Howe reviewed the national coal picture, touching upon supply, labor, production and management problems, before introducing the enabling bill, which later was given first reading.

In brief, he warned that the Maritime coal industry was heading for "disaster" unless its problems were quickly solved, but felt that the mines of Saskatchewan, Alberta and the southeast corner of British Columbia faced a bright future. The coal fields of Vancouver Island, a special problem, needed a reorganized production program.

The new board will take over the functions of the existing Dominion fuel board as well as records of the wartime coal control. However, it will have wider powers and will be clothed with authority to deal quickly with any emergency situation.

IN ADDITION, the board will administer coal subventions and subsidies voted by Parliament, develop research into new uses for coal and advise the government on the industry nationally.

Weather Excellent for Official Opening

Thousands at Marian Congress

By Shane Mackay

OTTAWA, June 18 —(CP)— Colorful Landsdowne Park in South Ottawa was thronged by thousands of Roman Catholics today as the giant Marian Congress, dedicated by the church to prayers for ever-lasting peace, prepared for its official opening later in the day.

BRIGHT SUNSHINE and fleecy white clouds over the vast outdoor repository brought the promise of fine weather for the opening ceremonies of the five-day religious festival.

Crowds poured through display buildings where various religious orders showed their work. Hundreds of priests and nuns acted as hosts and explained the exhibits depicting religious work of the church mission field at home and abroad.

James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto and personal representative of the Pope, will enter the stately old Basilica Cathedral this afternoon for the liturgical reception, signalling the opening of a five-day period of prayer and supplication. The congress takes the Virgin Mary as its theme.

It is expected 200,000 will come to the city, temporarily doubling the population. But everything is in readiness—special accommodation, special eating places and special transportation.

Payments to Date From May First

Payments to Alberta's old age pensioners probably will be increased from $30 a month to $33.75 as a result of the new Dominion government Old Age Pension Act, introduced into Parliament Tuesday by Hon. Paul Martin, minister of health, it was stated by a high government source today.

The spokesman said that it was not likely the pension would be increased immediately to $35 in view of the fact that certain hospitalization and medical expenses for pensioners now are absorbed by the government.

At the same time, Premier Ernest Manning said that, in view of the fact that no recent negotiations had been carried on between the Alberta and Dominion governments regarding pensions, he and his ministers would have to wait until they received copies of the new Dominion bill before committing themselves as to the future.

CLOSE OBSERVERS, however, felt that there was no doubt about an immediate increase in payments from $30 to $33.75 and that such would be retroactive as from May 1. It was pointed out that the matter has not been considered by the cabinet, but in view of the Dominion's action, this increase would become almost automatic.

At present the Alberta pension is $30. This is made up of $25 basic pension, of which the province contributes 25 per cent, or $6.25, plus $5 supplementary pension for a

Safety Pin Closed Gash Man's Stomach

OWEN SOUND, Ont., June 18 — (CP) — A pain-wracked four-hour crawl through a mile of wooded country with a safety pin closing a gaping wound in his stomach may have saved the life of Glen Conley, 26-year-old Meaford, Ont., fisherman.

His condition at hospital was described as reasonably good last night and unless complications set in he is expected to recover.

He told doctors he was fishing alone when he fell on to a sharp tree branch which pierced his abdomen. Nearly unconscious from pain, he realized he would die from loss of blood unless he could close the two-inch gash. Painfully he thrust a large safety pin through the lips of the wound and closed it.

Then he started for the nearest road, a good mile away. It took him four hours Monday—a nightmare journey across swamps and bush before he reached the road. There a bakery driver, Frank Summers, found him and took him to the nearest home.

"I can't understand how he ever made it to the road," said Summers. "He appeared to be in great pain and near collapse when I found him."

Surgeons said "he must have had an iron will to pass the pin through his flesh, but it undoubtedly saved his life."

$100,000 Fire Hits Town in Sask.

HANLEY, Sask., June 18—(CP) —A $100,000 fire which started in the shed at the rear of a recently-opened cafe yesterday threatened this entire town of 500 persons and destroyed almost half of the main shopping district.

Of the buildings fronting on one side of Main street, only the town's lone theatre remained standing today.

Aided by firemen from Saskatoon, 50 miles northwest of here, and from the villages of Dundurn to the north and Kenaston to the south, townsfolk fought the fierce blaze from about 4.15 p.m. until well into the evening when a stiff breeze died down and eased the situation.

Until outside help arrived, the town's entire populace organized bucket brigades to battle the flames.

Only one person, a power lineman, was reported injured when the pole he was working on in Hanley since 1935. Destroyed, aside from the cafe, were another restaurant, two grocery stores, an electrical goods shop, a barber shop, a pool hall and a drug store.

Red Deer Project Will Be Delayed

OTTAWA, June 18.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night in the Commons it would not be possible to start work this year on the Red Deer irrigation project in Alberta.

Speaking during consideration of his departmental estimates, the minister said he also was not in a position to say whether work could be started next year.

He said he had discussed the matter with the Alberta government early this year and it had been agreed that the work should be started first on the Saskatchewan St. Mary River dam project, for which $1,500,000 is provided in the current estimates. Then the Bow River project in Alberta would be started and the Red Deer project would follow.

U.S. Flood Situation Still Acute

New Torrents Flood Iowa Towns

By British United Press

The Big Des Moines river crest, pouring through a broken levee, flattened out over 14,000 acres of Missouri farmland today, staving off for at least 36 hours a major flood threat along a 150-mile stretch of the Mississippi river.

BUT NEW TORRENTS, spilling over the banks of the Iowa river, broke levees and flooded Iowa towns, villages and farms to the north. As the Iowa river's crest moved toward a confluence with the Mississippi, it brought a new threat to the 400,000 acres of rich bottomland farms lining the Mississippi from Wapello, Ia., to Clarkesville, Mo.

The Des Moines river crest poured through a broken levee across the river from Keokuk, Ia., and out over acreage already inundated by the last flood. Revising previous estimates, army engineers said the threat to the Mississippi riverfront would not come until Friday or Saturday.

The number of homeless, which reached 20,000 in Iowa, Missouri, Illinois and Nebraska last week before dropping off, again was building up rapidly as floods swept Iowa.

THE IOWA RIVER, swollen beyond the normal size of the Mississippi, battered a weakened levee at Oakville, Ia., and Iowa state guards began evacuating 125 families. Some 300 volunteers fought desperately through the night to hold the levee.

Waverly, Ia., was half covered with water, by a flash flood on the Cedar river. Water as much as four feet deep crashed through the door of a store operated by Mrs. Glenn Winchell.

Great Alaska Forest Fire Rages

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 18.—(AP)—Smoke darkened the Alaskan sky today as a great forest blaze, covering an estimated 100 square miles, ravaged the Kenai peninsula's rich spruce, herded droves of terrified big game before it and forced the little animals of the woods to seek refuge in the region's many lakes.

"The smoke is rising to 25,000 feet—so high we must fly around it," said Pilot Gentry Schuster, adding he saw flames leaping 100 feet into the air.

The weather bureau said there was no indication of an early rainfall.

A new fire in the Anchorage area has covered 300 acres, burning just two miles from the general hospital at Fort Richardson.

Germany Still Land of Rubble

BY CLINTON B. CONGEN

FRANKFURT, June 18.—(BUP)—It has been two years since the Allies stopped bombing Germany, but this is still a nation of gaunt, burned-out buildings and rubble. In 24 months not more than five per cent of the rubble has been cleared away in Berlin and rebuilding is rare indeed.

Statistics tell you that if all the rubble in Berlin were piled into a wall it would stretch to Dortmund, 260 miles away. The wall would be 15 feet high and 105 feet wide. Forty per cent of the buildings in Berlin are powdered too fine to be salvaged. There are 12,000 dust particles in every cubic yard of Berlin's air.

Willy Bonatz, chief of Berlin's building and housing department, says it would take 25 years and 7,000,000 freight car loads to get the rubble out of town.

For Peak Development

Investment Men Told To "Set Sights High"

JASPER, Alta., June 18 —(CP)— With Canada on the threshold of its greatest period of peacetime industrial and technological activity dealers in investment would be well advised to set the sights of their services on a level in keeping with the expected demand for them, A. H. Williamson of Vancouver said here Tuesday.

ONE OF FOUR speakers in an open forum of the annual convention of the Investment Dealers Association of Canada, Mr. Williamson, as chairman of the association's Pacific district, said:

"Funds for the development of productive capacity are in a large measure provided through the facilities of the investment dealer organization and, to the extent that we are ready and able to provide this essential service we will contribute in a very vital way to the prosperity of the Dominion.

In addition to essential financing for industry there was every indication there would be a large volume of provincial and municipal financing for the extension of government public services including roads, water, light, power, education and health.

C. B. Johnston of Winnipeg, a past vice-president, warned against dangers of over-expansion of municipal debt burden and that the same view held good for financial operations of provinces and business corporations.

"BUSINESSS corporations are enjoying record earnings and the back-log of world demand for the products of most industries would appear to assure the continuation of operations on a highly profitable level," he said.

Advantage had been taken of a favorable bond market for the refinancing and funded debts of corporations, and at lower interest rates.

Combination of these factors had resulted in a strong feeling of optimism but the case of the corporations was similar to that of municipalities and over optimism "may prove dangerous if it results in taking on of the debt commitments which may prove difficult to meet in less prosperous times."

An address dealing with salesmen's training and remuneration was delivered at the forum by R. H. Dean of Montreal.

BELIEF IN the system of free enterprise and democracy as inseparable entities was expressed by the general chairman of the forum, Trevor F. Moore of Montreal.

"We believe democracy and free enterprise go together; that you cannot have one without the other—not the complete disciplinary supervision imposed by the totalitarian state, but the discipline which comes from within the individual and which recognizes the need for some overall control, yet preserving the dignity of the individual."

Pension Boost

total of $11.25. The Dominion government pays 75 per cent of the $25, or $18.75.

Under the new legislation, the Dominion government will increase its contribution to 75 per cent of the present pension of $30, which would be $22.50. The Alberta contribution, remaining at $6.25, plus the supplementary pension of $5, or $11.25 in all, would bring the total to $33.75.

However, provincial government officials said that until they had time to consider the provisions and ramifications of the new Dominion act, they would not be able to say just what upward revisions might be made.

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, June 18—(CP)—The federal government's long-awaited old age pension bill, given first reading Tuesday in the Commons, provides—conditional on new pension agreements with the provinces—for $5-month increase in existing pension rates for the blind and aged, retrocative to May 1.

HEALTH MINISTER Martin promised to give the Commons full details of the legislation Wednesday, but a check of the bill showed that no change will be made in the eligible age of pensioners. In the case of the aged, pensions are payable to those 70 and over. For the blind, the eligible age is 40.

The bill increases the amount of income a pensioner may receive without suffering a reduction of pension and it also broadens the class of those who may receive pensions.

Of the 500,000 persons in Canada 70 and over, some 207,000 now are receiving pensions. There are some 7,000 blind pensioners. The annual cost of the pensions total $48,000,000 for the Dominion and $17,000,00 for the provinces.

Health Minister Martin told the Commons today that an estimated 60,000 persons will be added to the list of aged and blind pensioners in Canada as a result of the government's legislation aimed at raising the basic pension across Canada from $25 to $30 a month.

Opening debate on second reading of the pensions' bill, Mr. Martin said the changes being made would increase the country's pensions bill from $65,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

NOW, A SINGLE old age pensioner is entitled only to $425 annually inclusive of pension. Under the new bill he could receive $600 inclusive of pension without suffering a reduction of pension. The total income of a single blind person now is limited to $500 annually, but that ceiling will be raised to $720.

A married old age pensioner now is allowed a total income of $850 and hereafter will be allowed $1,080. In the case of the married blind pensioners the comparative figures are $925 and $1,200. The bill removes a provision which prevented the man and wife involved in a blind married couple from each receiving pensions.

It also removes a provision that required a pensioner to be a British subject. Anyone who meets residence qualifications now can apply for a pension.

THE AGREEMENTS with the provinces will provide for cases where a pensioner moves from one province to another to benefit from higher pension rate.

For instance, if a pensioner getting $25 in Quebec moved to British Columbia, he would be paid the BC rate of $38.75. However, Quebec would have to pay $25 of the amount and BC would make up the remainder.

Avoid Showdown On World Police

By MAX HARRELSON

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., June 18—(AP)—Delegates to the United Nations security council were reported agreed today that it would be useless to press for a vote now on major issues involved in the establishment of a world police force.

Any effort to try to resolve the disputed points by a showdown ballot at this time, it was generally conceded, would almost certainly result in a series of Soviet vetoes which would jeopardize the entire plan.

As the delegates prepared to resume debate on the military staff committee's report, it appeared likely that the council would confine its action at this stage to discussion of the report on a point-by-point basis.

At the conclusion of the debate, the council was expected to send the controversial points back to the military staff committee for further study.

Asks New Methods Building Houses

"Private enterprise will never catch up to building needs, because private contractors build houses for profit and due to high costs it is no longer profitable to build homes for the people," Gordon Clark, Edmonton, said in presenting a picture of housing conditions in Canada to about 50 members of the Edmonton CCF in the IOOF Hall Tuesday evening.

He pointed out that if houses are to be built on an adequate scale the initiative must come from the government.

"There is now half a million backlog and it would require 43,000 houses a year to keep up with deterioration and population increases," he said. About 203,000 of Canada's houses are more than 50 years old and are in the "slum" category, he said. About 35 per cent of the houses in Edmonton have no bathtubs while the national average is 36 per cent.

Another aspect of the housing situation stressed by Mr. Clark was the fact that 50 per cent of Canada's population were paying much higher rent than they could afford. About 89 per cent of them are in the lower income group, he said.

The setting up of a research bureau to study mass-production methods, materials and livability of houses was proposed by Mr. Clark as a solution.

Dr. Glen Shortcliff, French professor at Queens University, who has recently returned from France after about one year of research work, gave a few impressions of his visit in Europe.

Alberta Farm Help To Work in Ontario

Alberta will be sending farm help to eastern Canada to assist in Ontario harvests this year as has been done in the past, R. M. Putnam, director of extension, department of agriculture said Wednesday.

Farmers in Ontario have appealed for 2,000 farm workers from the west, Mr. Putnam said and Alberta is prepared to send a quota of harvesters to them

It is planned that the Alberta group should leave the province about June 23 to return in the latter part of August in time to assist in local harvesting.

Last year the province sent more than 600 harvesters to the east and will probably repeat this year.

Information may be obtained from district agriculturists or National Employment Service offices on arrangements as to transportation—which are not as generous as in previous years.

$15 Million a Year Urged for Irrigation

OTTAWA, June 18 —(CP)— J. R. MacNicol (PC-Toronto Davenport) said last night in the Commons that Western Canada, with sufficient federal assistance, could match the "stupendous" irrigation projects in Nebraska, Wyoming and Colorado in the United States.

SPEAKING DURING study of agriculture department estimates, Mr. MacNicol said it was a "tragedy" to see the population of the prairies steadily decreasing when this could be stopped through a proper irrigation program. Prosperous prairies would mean prosperity for the rest of the country.

Mr. MacNicol said the department of agriculture should spend $10,000,000 a year for the next 10 years on irrigation and the reconstruction department should spend $5,000,000 a year during a similar period.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner told of the difficulty in getting any federal government to spend money on irrigation and said that in recent years the amount allotted yearly had been about $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

He said he personally thought the total should have been "double" that in the past and "four or five times" that amount in the future.

HE HOPED THAT "in due course" $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 a year could be spent yearly on larger irrigation projects.

William Irvine (CCF-Cariboo) asked whether it was planned to extend the provisions of PFRA to the Peace River country of British Columbia.

Mr. Gardiner recalled his recent announcement that the Dominion would co-operate with the provinces in the rehabilitation of areas not covered by that act. This would include that area.

47 Assessment Appeals are Heard

Forty-seven appeals against 1947 land and improvements assessments are being heard by the city commissioners, sitting in the Civic Block as a court of revision.

Five of the assessments were confirmed at the morning sitting of the court, and one reduction of $75 was granted in the assessment of a private dwelling property.

The majority of the appeals are from individual property owners, the only appeal by a business firm being from Northwest Industries Ltd., against the assessment of land and improvements on its airport plant. The company claims the assessments are too high.

Some of the appeals are based on the grounds that proximity of city dumps lowers the value of the property, while others are seeking reductions because of proximity to power lines.

70 Days for "Cool-Off"

Federal Labor Code Halts Flash Strikes

By Douglas How

OTTAWA, June 18 —(CP)— Prohibition of strikes, lockouts or strike votes until the machinery for settlement of disputes has been exhausted and another 14 days have elapsed was ordained by the government Tuesday in the unveiling of its new federal labor act or code which admittedly was designed as a potential pattern for the provinces.

LABOR MINISTER Mitchell, moving for first reading of a bill which "embraces the best features" of famed wartime order-in-council 1003 and introduces some of its own told the Commons it provided for official recognition of majority-backed unions as collective bargaining agents; ruled out company-dominated unions and "unfair labor practices"; laid down procedures for negotiation and arbitration and directed that all agreements between companies and unions must provide for final settlement by arbitration or otherwise, without stoppage of work, of any dispute which arose between them.

The so-called code, actually a bill that will become "the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act," will be debated on second reading, possibly Wednesday.

LONE COMMENTS Tuesday were those of M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) who regretted its late arrival in the house but welcomed the fact that it would be referred to the industrial relations committee for detailed study.

Mr. Mitchell, in a later press conference, said the code could affect a potential force of 250,000 workers who come within federal jurisdiction in such fields as the big railways, telegraphs, canals and like works of an inter-provincial character, shipping and navigation, crown companies, air transportation, radio, and any works said by Parliament to be for the general advantage of Canada as a whole.

The rest of the Canadian working force of between 4,000,000 and 4,500,000 falls within the area of provincial legislation. Provincial jurisdiction, surrendered in war, was returned this spring.

THE CODE CONTAINS two major sections. The first defines and prohibits unfair labor practices; lays down procedure for certification of unions as bargaining agents and for negotiation of collective agreements and settlement of grievances "without interference" in connection with such agreements, and contains enforcement provisions, based on fines.

The second specifies the industries covered, provides for appointment of a labor relations board with a chairman and possibly eight members similar to that in existence now with Mr. Justice G. S. O'Connor as chairman and four representatives each for labor and employers, to administer certain provisions of the act, primarily to certify unions and to rule out company-dominated and minority-backed unions.

Outlining the procedure, Mr. Mitchell said that once a union had been certified by the board as a bargaining agent, the parties were required to enter into negotiations for the conclusion of a collective agreement.

"IF THEY CANNOT settle matters between themselves then the act requires them to obtain the conciliation services of the department of labor. If that fails a conciliation board may be appointed by the minister of labor upon the request of either party. This applies to the negotiation of existing agreements.

"An important provision prohibits an employer declaring a lockout, employes going on strike, the taking of a strike vote or the declaration of a strike until all conciliation procedures have been exhausted and 14 days have elapsed."

This, he said, was a new step which should give an estimated average period of 70 days for cooling off. Previously a strike vote could be called before conciliation started.

Within the provisions on unfair practices there are laws prohibiting employers from interfering or participating in the formation or administration of unions or contributing to their support or from discriminating against any employe for union activities.

IT PROHIBITS employers and all others from using coercion or intimidation to compel any person to become or refrain from becoming or to cease to be a member of a union." Trade unions are prohibited from attempting to organize employes during working hours without the consent of the employer.

A new provision makes invalid any clause in an agreement which would require an employer to discharge a worker because he engages in activities for a union other than that signed to the agreement. However, collective agreements containing closed or union shop or preferential hiring provisions are sanctioned.

In the certification proceedings, the board may certify a union as a bargaining agent if "it is satisfied that the majority of the employes in the given unit are members in good standing of the union." If the board finds it has to order a vote to make up its mind, it may certify the union obtaining the votes of the majority.

Low Claims UN Is "Booby Trap"

OTTAWA, June 18—(CP)—The United Nations was described in the Commons Tuesday by Solon Low, Social Credit leader, as a "booby-trap" baited to draw Canada into a world government.

Opposing a government bill to extend to U.N. representatives certain privileges and immunities required under the United Nations charter, Mr. Low served notice that his party planned to discuss all aspects of the legislation at a later stage.

The measure then was given second reading, indicating approval of the principle, and referred to the House Committee on external affairs.

Jean Francois Pouliot (Ind L—Temiscouata) said he was opposed to the bill because it represented another step to bring Canada into the sphere of world government. It was a step toward domination by the big powers, which had shown no success in their actions to date.

U.S. Livestock Entered in Fair

The Edmonton Exhibition Association's summer fair to be held July 14 to 19 inclusive will be decidedly international in character as far as the livestock classes are concerned, as numerous entries have been received from leading breeders in the United States.

Entries in the livestock classes close on June 20 at 1 p.m. it was announced Wednesday by Charles E. Wilson, managing director.

He said that besides the large entries from the United States, strong contingents of cattle are being shipped from Ontario and Quebec for the fair. Entries from Alberta breeders also are very heavy, Mr. Wilson reported, with Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia also sending strong contenders for the greatly increased prize money offered this year.

Judges in the livestock events are: Professor J. P. Sackville, Edmonton, Red Poll cattle; J. A. Hay, Kessonlale BC, Holstein; William Cameron, Midnapore, Shorthorns; Fred Thompson, Fairlight, Sask. None to Spare

Canada isn't shipping any beef to Britain just now. We are eating all the processing plants turn out, leaving none for export. This information was given to parliament by the minister of agriculture last week.

This, it appears, is another result of the backward weather. Spring marketings of cattle have been set back about a month. When deliveries pick up, oversea shipments will be resumed, at whatever rate the supplies make possible. For, as Mr. Gardiner moderately stated, Britain is "urgently seeking" more Canadian beef.

Noting the protest parades of British housewives and other items of "austerity" news, it would perhaps not be putting the fact too strongly to say London is "begging" for more beef.

No Money for "Frills"

Figures produced in the House of Commons for 1945—the last year of complete record—show that if all incomes had been limited to $5,000 the additional revenue collected through taxation could have amounted to only $147 millions. If the limit had been set at $10,000, the extra revenue collectable would have been $66 millions.

But the expenditures of the national government last year ran to $2,632 millions, and the estimated expenditure for the present year is $2,100 millions.

It is obvious that no system of steeply graded income taxation could supply more than a fraction of the money needed to support the present rate of spending. It is still more clear that expenditures on a broader scale could not be met by "taxing the rich," nor by taking heavier slices off the income of every person in Canada who is liable to income taxation. There aren't enough "rich" to make that possible, nor are incomes all up and down the scale large enough to provide the funds.

The patent fact is that "millionaires" are conspicuous in Canada by being scarce. In 1945 there were only 160 Canadians who had incomes of more than $100,000. Their joint income was $27 millions. But the tax-collectors took $24 millions of this, leaving them only $3 millions.

It seems plain enough that national revenue will have to continue to be collected in the bulk from the preponderant majority who do not rank anywhere near the millionaire level, and collected through a widely diversified system of taxation. The inference is very direct; we cannot have lighter taxation and also colossal expenditure.

These figures suggest that if taxation is to follow a downward course—which everyone hopes—the public will have to refrain from demanding that parliament spend money on things which neither produce revenue, meet definite needs, nor open up new opportunities for the production of wealth.

Symbols of Freedom

Strikes are in progress in three industrial centres in Quebec, while tie-ups are threatened in two important centres in Ontario and in logging camps in British Columbia. In the United States, coastal and foreign shipping was paralyzed when seamen went on strike at midnight Monday in Atlantic ports, Gulf ports and Pacific ports.

Such industrial interruptions are symbols of free enterprise. They do not occur in a state-controlled economy. There are no strikes in Russia, as there were none in Hitler's Germany nor in Mussolini's Italy. They are not permitted in totalitarian states. They could not be permitted in such states without endangering collapse of the whole political-economic structure. If state-supremacy were challenged in the industrial field it might—and likely would—be challenged in other fields. Safety first compels the absolute rulers to cancel out the freedom of workers to stop working.

But that is not the only reason for the ban. It is only in a free economy that production reaches a volume large enough to stand these shocks of interruption. Under state-control and official planning, every cog in the machine must function all the time or the whole mechanism would be thrown into disorder. Where enterprise is free and any man may go into any business or occupation he may choose, the productive organism is elastic enough to absorb such shocks as regional stoppages, and is only seriously hampered when the deadlock is widespread and paralyzes a key industry.

Strikes—and lock-outs of course—are evils anywhere. But these interruptions are bearable where there is freedom of competition in enterprise and employment. Under any totalitarian set-up they would disrupt the tightly-geared mechanism, and could wreck the whole fantastic contraption.

Senator Michener

The death of Hon. Edward Michener leaves a vacancy in the ranks of representatives of Alberta in the Senate. It closes the career of a long-time resident of this province, who was very active and widely known in provincial political life before and during the years of the First World War. Mr. Michener was three times mayor of the city of Red Deer, and represented that constituency in the provincial legislature from 1909 until 1918. From 1910 to 1918 he was leader of the Conservative opposition in that body.

Appointed to the Senate in the latter year, he has long been out of political activities and was therefore almost unknown to the younger generation, save in the city of Calgary where he has made his home for many years. Throughout his public life the late senator was held in the highest esteem by his political contemporaries and by the general public. He will be remembered as a worthy Albertan and a fine type of representative.

Looking to the West

Two weeks late but coming along well; this seems to fairly summarize crop reports covering the three prairie provinces. Northern Saskatchewan has been less favored than other sections in the matter of rainfall, and central Alberta has received less than the average. Showery weather and continued high temperatures can make up for late seeding, according to most regional reports.

Contrasted with the crop news from Ontario and the Maritimes, this makes cheerful reading, and this not for sectional or selfish reasons only. It appears to be accepted that Canada will have to look to the western provinces to make up for shortages in those areas. It is certain that the prairie crops will bulk larger than they usually do in the national total, should weather conditions here remain favorable.

It is on the West that Canada has to rely for farm production on a normal or better than normal scale. That the national total can reach the volume of last year, or even of an average year, nobody seems to be predicting.

One Guess

The crash of an airliner in Virginia on Friday evening brought to a probable 390 the number of persons killed in major commercial airplane crashes this year. A third of these fatalities occured in the last three weeks. Two of the accidents were the worst in the history of peacetime aviation.

Of the total fatalities, nearly half resulted from the crashes of three DC-4 planes in the Eastern United States. Investigations of these tragedies are still under way and no final official reports have yet been issued to show why any of them occurred.

Subject to what the investigators may say, and to all the limitations of an amateur guess, it would seem that worn-out Army planes are not suitable for peacetime civilian passenger service.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1887: 60 Years Ago

The eastern papers which have taken such mighty attitudes on the disallowance question will soon have to look for a soft spot to light on unless a great change comes over the people of Manitoba. If it is the duty of the federal government, as they say it is, to prevent the C.P.R. from being cut in two, to prevent the Manitoba trade from being lost to Eastern Canada, to keep a large section of the boomers and shysters who are glad to be raising the present agitation, what is the government going to do about it when the Northern Pacific trains reach Winnipeg on November 1st? There will have to be either a call for troops or an ignominious back-down on the part of the "government of Eastern Canada" and its organs.

1897: 50 Years Ago

Though for more than a week the rain has poured incessantly, converting streets into a mass of mud and threatening postponement of the jubilee celebration, the weather finally cleared and plans are now proceeding to make the gala demonstration an unqualified success. All sections of Edmonton's varied communal life will be represented. It is expected that the largest crowd in the city's history will throng the streets to watch Edmonton's tribute to the Empire and the Crown which is at once the symbol and assurance of its everlasting unity.

1907: 40 Years Ago

London: Consideration of the resolution which Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman will move in the House of Commons for refusing the wings of the House of Lords begins what will probably be one of the bitterest political struggles in British history.

Fifty settlers will leave Edmonton for the Peace River country on July 1st, the members of the party intending to take up homesteads and remain in the far north-western district.

1917: 30 Years Ago

London: Sometime during the past twenty-four hours, the Germans evacuated the territory west of the river Lys. British patrol troops today did not encounter a single enemy in the section from Warneton southward.

Petrograd: The "Command of Death" is the official title of a women's regiment organized by the twice-wounded girl officer Vera Butchkareff.

1927: 20 Years Ago

Winnipeg: The man held by police here as being the "strangler" has been identified as the party wanted for many murders in the United States.

Geneva: Reduction in the size of battleships from the present limit of 35,000 tons to less than 30,000 tons was recommended by Right Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, Great Britain's representative at the tri-party naval conference.

1937: 10 Years Ago

Soviet aviators took off from Moscow bound on a flight to San Francisco. Their route was to take them over Edmonton.

The special session of the Legislature ended with the ordering of a Royal Commission to investigate road-building.

W. R. McLaren, Edmonton, was made vice-president of the provincial command of the Canadian Legion at the convention held in Lethbridge.

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE — by Webster

The 100 Polish Girls

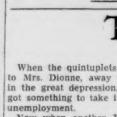
BY ELMORE PHILPOTT

When the quintuplets were born to Mrs. Dionne, away back there in the great depression, the world got something to take its mind off unemployment.

Now when another Dionne—the bachelor Member of Parliament for Beauce, Quebec—imported 100 Polish maidens from Germany he started something almost as newsworthy.

What is behind this move is not so important as what it is ahead of it.

If it is true that the girls are of certified chastity — so much the better. It just goes to show that at least 100 girls were not as badly treated by their slave-masters as we had feared all were.



PHILPOTT

Incidentally, the well-fed appearance of these girls—as attested by news photos and newsreels—casts doubt on the desperation of hunger that is supposed to prevail in Germany—especially in the DP camps.

IF THESE 100 POLISH virgins were coming into Canada as ordinary free immigrants for one, we would be glad. They look to me like the kind of people whom we should be glad to get.

Canada needs more people. We could and should easily settle here double the present population.

But nothing could make it so immigration policy as what the government has done in this case.

Here are the facts:

1. The girls will work for 21 cents per hour—at jobs which the government itself admits could not be filled in Canada at that disgraceful pittance.

2. The girls will live in convents.

3. The girls will be "indentured," that is, bound for years to pay back the cost of their plane passage.

If we examine each one of those points we see how dangerous is this policy.

It is a crime to ask any human being to work for 21 cents per hour with the cost of living what it is today in Canada.

What is the difference between housing these girls in convents and the pre-war system in Japan where the girls lived in barracks attached to factories? Is it not in effect making religious organizations partners in human exploitation?

CANADIANS SHOULD never forget that it is the self-same system of "indentured labor" that is starting in Quebec that poisoned relationships in Western Canada.

In the last century, the railroads wanted "cheap labor" which would work for far less than self-respecting North Americans would take. They imported gangs of Chinese and other Asiatics. The result was far worse than to create the deepest and bitterest kind of class strife. It caused race hate that even to this day has not been completely wiped out on the West Coast.

If Canada wants that same thing all over again—from coast to coast —then all we need to do is to let any financier do on a big scale what Mr. Ludger Dionne, MP, has begun to do in the case of the 100 Polish maidens.

WHEN THE BRITISH parliament led the western world by abolishing slavery, the plantation owners in Trinidad and other islands of the West Indies imported, under "indenture contracts," thousands of Hindu workers. That system turned out to be little better than actual slavery.

There is a complete record of the Hindus' struggle to break that indenture system. Canadian MPs might well read that record now.

THERE ARE HUNDREDS of thousands of would-be immigrants to Canada in Britain and the Scandinavian countries. We should do everything possible to bring these into Canada—but not as pawns to drive down wages, or to bring the workers "to heel."

Britain's Mr. Horner

BY FRANK B. WALKER

London: Britain today is in pawn to the National Union of Mineworkers, which means in effect to Mr. Arthur Horner and he is making the most of his opportunity. He has already won his fight for five-day week for the miners in the one year when Britain desperately needs every ton of coal. Now he is after a new national wage structure, superannuation and improved compensation rates.

There is little doubt he will get it, or most of it and some of his confidence was reflected in the statement that "We have asked Mr. Attlee in the presence of Mr. Shinwell to take note of the fact that we expect that job to be done not later than December 31 of this year."

MR. HORNER does not bother with the National Coal Board, his union's nominal employer, since the mines were taken over in January of this year. He gives his instructions directly to the government and he expects them to be carried out. He is coming to be regarded as a very forthright and determined man, and evidently he believes that he holds the whip hand.

Mr. Horner likes Mr. Shinwell, which is one reason why the latter has survived his disastrous handling of the fuel situation last winter. Under more normal conditions, a blunder of the magnitude of the fuel "crisis" would have caused the resignation of any minister, but Mr. Shinwell has the confidence of the miners' leader and so he stays.

It is a sorry story. The Labor government now finds itself help less before a single group in the community. It cannot afford to offend the miners. It must do their bidding.

Already it is a gamble as to whether the admittedly low target of 200 million tons for 1947 will be reached. On this production will have to continue at the rate of at least 3,870,000 tons of coal a week for the rest of the year. It has not yet reached that figure and that figure, it is generally agreed, is too low to see Britain through.

To reach the new objective of 220 million tons seems beyond even the most optimistic hopes. There is one bright spot in an otherwise gloomy picture. The intake of recruits into the mining industry has been better than expected. The target for 1947 was 38,000. Approximately 19,000 have already been recruited. To some extent this intake can be accounted for by a return of miners from the forces but there is also a good proportion of new blood.

THAT IS THE only bright spot. For the rest, the government is gambling that somehow the miners will mine sufficient coal in five days to offset the loss in working time. Some minor savings will be secured by the domestic fuel regulations, while industry is to continue on an allocation based on actual consumption during the summer of 1946.

Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, has termed it "extremely risky" to gamble on a higher output from the miners. Yet this is what is being done and is being done with the full realization on the part of the government that a very real danger exists of another fuel disaster next winter.

It is under these conditions that Mr. Horner has stepped forward to make the latest demands for the 700,000 odd members of his union. He knows that during the next twelve months he can get pretty nearly anything he likes and he is out after it with all the skill and directness which has made him general secretary of one of the most politically conscious trade unions in Britain.

What happened in the coal mines has happened to a lesser degree in other basic industries. The only difference is that without coal no other industry particularly matters in Britain today. Today, it is the turn of the miners; tomorrow it may be the turn of some other group.

MR. SHINWELL has stated that only the organized workers of Britain count; the rest do not matter "a tinker's cuss." If there were any doubts about it before, this latest pronouncement from Mr. Shinwell should clear them up. And in this again, he is apparently in agreement with Mr. Horner. The communist general secretary of the Mineworkers Union is showing this year he too believes the rest do not matter "a tinker's cuss."

Smiles

The daughter's young man had been invited to the house by her parents for the first time. He strode up to her rather austere father with a breezy familiarity, grabbed his hand, and said, "Hello, pop!"

The older man seemed dumbfounded.

"Well," he returned acidly, "you are somewhat premature in your greetings, are you not?"

"Premature!" returned the other, with a puzzled air. Then his brow cleared. "Oh, yes. I thought I'd better come early. Doesn't do to keep an old buffer waiting when his daughter's your sweetie, does it?"

Magistrate: "Your wife says you have her terrorized."

Prisoner: "Honestly, sir—"

Magistrate: "I do not ask you this in my official capacity, but as a man to man, do you understand?"

Prisoner: "Yes, your worship."

Magistrate: "What's your secret?"

"Just think," said the conceited heavyweight boxer, "thousands of listeners will tune in to this fight tonight."

"Yes," retorted the manager, "and they'll know the result at least ten seconds before you will."

"Who fiddled while Rome burned?" asked the schoolmaster.

"Hector, sir."

"No," said the schoolmaster.

"Towser, sir."

"Fowser!" said the schoolmaster. "What do you mean? It was Nero."

"Well," said the boy, "I knew it was somebody with a dog's name."

"What have you done with that book, 'How to Live 100 years'?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"You don't think I'm going to have a book like that living about with your mother in the house, do you?" replied Mr. Brown.

A clergyman was about to start a lecture tour, and on being interviewed by a reporter he asked him particularly not to publish anything of the forthcoming lectures as it might spoil the attendance at other meetings he was holding in the district.

The following morning he was horrified to read in the local newspaper: 'Our versatile vicar delivered a delightful lecture in the church hall. He told some excellent stories, but unfortunately they cannot be printed."

"In these hard times we should put a bridle on our appetite."

"I would rather put a bit in my mouth."

The steps up to the railway platform were steep, and this, added to the weight of the bag, caused the large man to pant considerably.

"Carry your bag sir?" asked a small boy.

"No get out of my way," came the answer, between gasps.

The lad persisted, however, and made the stout one so angry that he snapped his second retort in a force that was not to be questioned.

"Well can I hold your breath, sir?" jeered the lad.

"I wore this gown to the party despite my husband's objections."

"That shows a lot of backbone."

"I'll say. That's why he objected to it."

Equality First

BY HARPER PROWSE, MLA

Whenever one discusses democracy and the question of fundamental human rights the word "equality" usually turns up. It is rather interesting to try to figure out what people mean when they speak of the day when all men will be "equal."

At the present time all men are considered to have equal treatment from the law. That is they are equal in so far as, if accused of a crime, they have the right to a fair trial before the courts. This does not refer to the personalities or possessions of the men in question, it merely refers to their right to a fair trial. No man is supposed to have a trial which is more fair or less fair than any other.

ECONOMICALLY the question becomes very tricky. Some people undoubtedly mean, when they refer to equality in this sphere, that each man should receive an equal share of this world's goods. This, however, is a proposition which is hardly acceptable. It is obvious that the only way we can insure that each man produces an equal amount to that produced by any other man, that each man contributes equally, is to insist that each man limit his production to the capacity of the least able. It is also obvious that this would hardly be a sensible thing to do and would be unfair to all those who were required to limit their production.

WHEN IT COMES to distributing the products of production, the same trouble arises. Some people want one thing, others want another. People's needs for such basic things as food will vary with the individual and even when we reduce this to the absolute minimum, a diet which will permit one to enjoy good health would cause another to die of slow starvation.

SOMETIMES one is led to believe that everything is equal in classless Russia. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Russians pay most of their workers wages based on piecework—that is according to their productive ability, and each one is encouraged to do his best. Special inducements and honors are given those who achieve production records. Similarly there is a great difference in the wages depending on what kind of labor a person performs.

IT WOULD seem then that the only way we can achieve equality is by finding some other basis of measurement than economic welfare. It has been suggested by some economists and political philosophers that equality should refer to equality of opportunity. That is, that the state should be run so that each man and woman has an equal opportunity. That would include the right to develop their personalities and abilities to the greatest possible degree, to make the best living of which they are capable. Under democracy the function of the state is to do all in its power to see that this condition exists. However it may be necessary from time to time for the state to give such assistance to those who are in difficulty, to restrict those whose actions might restrict the freedom of others. This is a departure from the "equality" thesis.

It is therefore, if we would avoid the blinding confusion, that in all discussions touching politics and economics we should carefully define our terms. And of all the terms which should be carefully defined before it is used probably the term "equality" should be placed at the top of that list.

Bulletin Readers Say:

Letters to the editor should be brief and discuss no more than one subject at a time. The name and address of the writer must be included, but not necessarily for publication if the correspondent so requests. Letters thus received become the property of THE EDMONTON BULLETIN editors, for obvious reasons, cannot undertake to enter into correspondence about them and reserve the right to delete extraneous or unduly controversial matter.

A NATIONAL FLAG

Editor, Bulletin: It is noted with regret that certain members of Parliament have been fit to bewail the fact that the Union Jack was not flying alongside the Stars and Stripes and the Canadian Red Ensign during the visit of President Truman to Ottawa.

Based on the premise that all nationalities in Canada might likewise choose to have the flag of the country from whence they or their ancestors originally came also in evidence, we would require a veritable forest of flag-poles in Ottawa and district.

One of the tragic differences between Canada and the United States is that the latter country has one flag for all its various nationalities and races, whereas we have at least three. It is quite possible that we have never been as patriotic as our southern neighbors because of this fact. On July 1st no one will see the Union Jack, the French Tri-Color and the Canadian Ensign all flying at the same time, causing any foreigner to wonder just what we are celebrating.

Now that Canada has become a nation it is certainly time we had our own flag, whether it contains a pot-pourri of the English, Scottish, Irish flag (Union Jack) the Fleur-de-Lys, the Russian hammer and sickle, and the inscription in Chinese, just so long as it is distinctively Canadian flag for all of our people to acknowledge and respect.

All those who prefer the country of their origin or that of their ancestors should be given quick passage back to that place. It is time we grew up.

CHANGE POSITIONS

Editor, Bulletin.—Mr. Dionne, manufacturer, who brought the Polish girls to his mill, says that it is impossible to obtain and train Canadian girls.

I believe he is telling the truth. What is responsible for the resistance of Canadian young womanhood—is it low pay? In restaurants, stores, offices, banks, and even government jobs, the turnover in young women is remarkable. Every time I go into one of these stores I see new faces. They cannot all be getting married, for one young woman I know has had more than half a dozen different jobs in the last two years and is still single. It has been said, perhaps facetiously, that the girls look around for eligible young men, and if there are none present, they (the girls) move to greener pastures.

Whatever the reason (and it is worthy of sociological study) it is a problem for employers, and if Canadian girls cannot, or will not, stay placed, they may some morning wake up and find Europeans in their places.

EMPHASIS ON ORIGIN

Editor, Bulletin.—Although only here in Canada three weeks, I find that Canadians seem to place emphasis on their origin with which I personally I'm puzzled for as I now see it this must be one of the most beautiful countries in the world and potentially one of the richest. How many of the nationalities mentioned if given the choice of returning to their homelands or remaining in Canada would choose the former?

These people who think they still are in love with their birthplace are the ones responsible for the youth of Canada being drawn to the USA, having failed to show Canadian youth its wonderful heritage.

Had they done so and taken only from the Old World, and the US that which was beneficial I feel we would have created no other than love this country.

My only regret is that I did not come here twenty-five years ago. I shall qualify for Canadian citizenship in five years. I'll be 44 then, better late than never.

WINNIE'S VIEWS PROVEN

Editor, Bulletin: Jeremiah was called a prophet of gloom, and yet what he phophesied for Ancient Israel came to pass.

Over in Britain, the short, stocky figure of Winston Churchill looms larger now than ever it did when he was in power.

For Winston Churchill saw the future clearly concerning Russia. He dared to stand in his place in the House of Commons and declare his vision. For that he was execrated, ridiculed, and overthrown from the leadership of his countrymen.

But as the Iron Curtain was sent down between the Totalitarianism of Russia and the free world of Western Democracy, he saw its metallic reality in the cry of the leaders of Communism, as false as ever that of Hitler was, about—encirclement.

Behind its rusted folds the leaders of the Communist gangsters fooled with the governments of the countries they had crept into, the eyes of free men. They didn't fool them. They knew the answer of the men of the free countries, and dominated the countries their armies squatted upon. They knew that Freedom was being replaced by subjugation.

And for the past two years exactly what Winston Churchill dared to say concerning the Communist regime, Russia and the men in the Kremlin, and what it would do, has come all too true.

A DICKENS' QUOTATION

Editor, Bulletin: Apropos of the letter in The Bulletin, "Friendship to the Jews." Allow me to point out:

"Men say, this is a bad Greek, but there are good Greeks. This is a bad Turk, but there are good Turks. Not so with the Jews. Men find in the Jew, a race, as easily enough — among what peoples are the bad not easily found? — but in the Jew, a race of all as samples of the best; they take the lowest; of us as presentations of the highest; and the say, 'All Jews are alike'."

The above quotation is from Charles Dickens in "Our Mutual Friends," 1865.

Central Dairy Pool Votes Revise Bylaws

RED DEER, June 18: Fundamental changes were made in the constitution of the Central Alberta Dairy Pool at its 22nd annual general meeting held on Tuesday at Red Deer. During the year representatives of the dairy co-operatives in the province had met to consider uniform by-laws covering procedure, organization and distribution of earnings with special regard to the amendments to the income war tax act passed at the last session of parliament.

An extraordinary resolution was submitted providing for the complete revision of the bylaws of the Pool. J. E. Brownlee, KC, Pool counsel, explained this to the delegates in detail. The resolution was passed, the old bylaws being repealed and the new draft substituted.

R. R. ARMSTRONG, Olds, presided and there were 39 delegates present. Mayor H. W. Halladay welcomed the delegates on behalf of the city. Financially the Pool was down from the previous year, the farmers' strike being a heavy blow. M. C. McCannel, Edmonton, the Pool's auditor, reviewed the financial statement and balance sheet, answering Wee's Orch., CBS questions. Three hundred and seventeen new members joined during the year, A. W. Wood, Provincial president of the Pool and chairman of the board of directors, said in his annual report. He referred to the pending application by the transport companies for increases in freight rates, dairy convention awards to members and the Pool's satisfactory labor relations.

F. J. FITZPATRICK, provincial supervisor of co-operatives, spoke of the steady growth of the co-operative movement, both producers and consumers units. He discussed co-operative life insurance and credit unions.

E. A. Johnstone, Red Deer, general manager, said in his annual report that the board policy had been to avoid buying new plant properties unless they could be reasonably assured that they would pay for themselves in about five years.

There was considerable controversy on this point, one of the resolutions introduced later in the meeting being that no new plants be bought except when authorized by a two-thirds vote of the delegates. This resolution was one of seven, all of which were lost. Mr. Johnstone spoke of improvements in the plants and various schemes of modernization. He said that the condensery at Red Deer would challenge comparison with the best anywhere.

DIRECTORS were elected for districts 1 and 7, J. Stone, Alix, was elected in district 1 to replace George Morrison, Nevis. All other retiring directors were re-elected. They are: District 1, J. Stone, Alix; district 2, A. Ross, Duhamel; district 3, J. B. Bradley, Lacombe; district 4, L. Bickley, Red Deer; district 5, A. Wood, Elmora; district 6, A. W. Green, Byemoor; district 7, J. Hutchings, Consort; district 8, A. Robertson, Bowden.

The guest speaker at the banquet in the evening at the Buffalo hotel was Alex H. Mercer, president of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association, who spoke on his recent trip to Holland as representative of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. He attended a meeting of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

Guests at the banquet included: D. H. McCallum, Alberta dairy commissioner; R. Stanley, and F. W. Maddock, Edmonton, Northern Alberta Dairy Pool; F. J. Fitzpatrick, Edmonton, provincial supervisor of co-operatives; William Burns, Southern Alberta Dairy Pool; N. F. Priestly, UFA, Calgary.

J. A. Wood, Pool president, was chairman.

Bosox Stretch Streak By Edging Browns 6-5

NEW YORK, June 18 —(AP)— The defending American League champion Boston Red Sox rang up their seventh straight victory yesterday when they defeated St. Louis Browns 6-5 to give the Sox their longest winning streak this season.

For starter Dave Ferriss, who was shaky in the early innings and who weakened late in the game after he was struck by a hard-hit ball, it was his sixth decision against five defeats.

BROWNIE catcher Les Moss slugged a three-run homer in the second inning and Sam Mele duplicated for the Sox in the third.

In the only other American League games, Cleveland defeated Washington 5-3 and Philadelphia downed Detroit 5-2.

Big factor in the Cleveland win was Bobby Feller who notched his ninth victory of the season. He struck out nine, walked none and permitted eight hits, one of them a homer by Stan Spence.

AT PHILADELPHIA, Carl Scheib, 20-year-old righthander, pitched the second complete game of his career in organized baseball to down the Tigers! It was Scheib's second victory in a week over the Detroiters.

Over in the National League, the leading Boston Braves pounded rookie pitcher Ken Peterson from the mound in the first inning and went on to run wild over Cincinnati 11-1.

The Braves pounded five Red hurlers for 16 hits while the only Cincinnati run was on a homer by third baseman Grady Hatton although Red Barrett was tagged for 12 blows.

STAN MUSIAL'S triple with the bases loaded in the ninth inning scored three runs and gave St. Louis Cardinals a 7-6 victory over Philadelphia Phillies in a night game at St. Louis. It was the sixth straight win for the Cardinals and moved them into fifth place.

Thomas Saves Game for Eskis In 8th Frame

Well, Eddie (Lefty) Belter and Johnny Gray finally hooked up but Renfrew Park ball fans will have to wait for another day to see who'll get the decision.

The crack Eskimo portsider, leading pitcher in the Big Four with five wins against a single loss, and the former U. S. Army Yanks righthander who is with the Cubs this year, had worked 11 scoreless innings before Unpire Herb Coxford called the game on account of darkness.

It was a genuine pitcher's battle with almost an even break on the night's honors. Belter hurlers allowed six hits and Eskimos and Cubs got as far as third base in only two innings. Just four Eskimos and five Cubs reached second.

JOHNNY Gray held a slight edge in strikeouts and walks, retiring 10 batters on strikes to Belter's eight and walking just a pair to Lefty's four. Only 40 Eskimos faced Gray and Belter pitched to just 41 Cubs.

Eskimos had the better of the tussle the first three innings, but after the fifth, in which Garrett and Stevenson singled, they had only one chance with Gray. Ken Samis drew a walk to start off the seventh and Cy Thomas sacrificed and Garrett's infield out placed Samis on third, but the Cub pitcher got Belter on strikes.

Stevenson also got hit with one out in the 11th, but Gonzales flied to Superstein and Stewart struck out.

CUBS' BEST chance to win the ball game came in the last of the eighth when they filled the bases with two out, but Cy Thomas made a leaping catch to pull down Doug Lane's hard drive to retire the side.

Ralph DeMarco got as far as third in the fourth frame. The Cub shortstop singled and Johnston sacrificed. Clovechok came out to Thomas and DeMarco went to third on the throw-in, but Lane fouled out to Gonzales.

ESKIMOS MISSED a good opportunity for a tally in the second frame. Seaman beat out a hit to deep short and pulled up at second on Ken Samis' single to right. Thomas advanced both via the sacrifice route.

Garrett then hit to short and DeMarco cut Seaman down at the plate with a lovely peg to Lippincott. Belter struck out to pinch off the rally.

Kos Will Battle Wilf Desjardins

Arrangements are almost complete for the go-card Trudeau-Roddy McDonald light-heavyweight battle, which is scheduled to be held July 3 in Kingsway Park.

Both lads are busy training and Trudeau hopes to enter the ring at 165 pounds and McDonald believes he will be close to 161.

THE EIGHT - r and semi-wind-up, which promises to be fast and furious while it lasts, will bring together rugged Johnny Kos and Wilf Desjardines, who also packs a lot of power in both hands.

A six-round special has been arranged, with Billy Smith taking on Gordon Gray of Viking. Smith and Gray gave good accounts of themselves in their last outing and are expected to provide a lively match all the way.

Two four-round preliminaries will round out the card.

Civic Fastball

A hard-hitting Civic Block nine edged the Fire Department 12-11 in a Civic Fastball League game last evening. The Civic crew collected 18 hits in the slugfest.

Scotty Dalzell bashed out a tremendous ninth-inning homer for firemen, but that was all they could garner in a last-ditch attempt to knot the count.

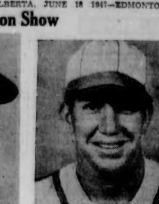
Rival Pitchers Put on Show

"LEFTY" BELTER



JOHNNY GRAY

CY THOMAS

A Belter versus Gray duel looked like a natural from the time it was first mooted—and it resulted in a classic. The pitching of Eddie (Lefty) Belter and Johnny Gray will rank amongst the greatest—if it was not the best—in the history of Renfrew Park. And one thing is certain the fans will be pulling for a repeat. Both chuckers received fine support, with the catch by Cy Thomas of Doug Lane's drive the most spectacular individual effort of the night. Two were out and the bases clogged when Lane got hold of one of Lefty's swifties in the eighth inning, and three runners were headed for the plate when Cy snared the ball. Andy Clovechok had eight assists.

WINNIPEG, June 18 —(CP)— Nine thousand fans turned out at Polo Park here Tuesday as Winnipeg's 14-day spring racing meet got under way. Fort Garry, running as an entry with Topsy Lass from the K. and K. stable, Winnipeg, copped the feature race of the day, the 7½-furlong $1,200 President's handicap.

Reports from hospital indicate he is suffering from an injured back. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

HIGHEST price of the day came in the fourth race when Windsor Lass, almost completely overlooked in the betting, romped home in the one-mile route, to pay off at $57.70 for a $2 straight ticket.

The daily double of Alaska in the first to Hi Cougar in the second posted figures of $357.80.

The quinella, Nevada Currant and Craighagh returned $210.00.

Purity Nine Beats Buffs In Last Heat

CALGARY, June 18 (CP) —Starting a squeeze play from third and finishing the trip on a wild pitch, Walt Gully Tuesday night scored in the ninth inning to give Purity 99 a 5-4 decision over Calgary Buffaloes in a closely fought Big Four Baseball League game at Buffalo Stadium.

A crowd of about 1,300 ladies' night fans saw Buffs tie the count at 4-4 in the top half of the ninth after trailing from the third inning, only to have Purity again go out in front when Gully scored with two out in the bottom half of the last frame.

Craddock Posts Perfect at Traps

Only one perfect score was posted in yesterday's tricky wind at the Edmonton Gun Club range, and the honor fell on the capable shoulders of President Charlie Craddock.

Charlie made his 25 straight at traps, and just managed to edge out four others by one "bird." They were: Bill Davis, W. Lothian, A. C. Anderson and Walter Mitchell. Bracketed with 23's were Bob Patzig and B. Patry, while Babe Gaschen, O. Byers, J. H. McPherson, Pat St. Peter and H. Haughan smashed 22. Frank Petherbridge had 21, H. Davis 20, G. Game 20, T. Heatherfield 20, W. Hoadley 19, Bill Noak 18, Mrs. Bill Madge 17 and Jim McIntyre 17.

BUS BROWN was high man at skeet with 23, while Walter Muirhead and Bill Madge had 22. Fargus Owens 20, K. Tempas and Bob Turner 19, F. Verigan 18, G. Walker 17, Dr. Hervieux 16 and Cliff Eckersley 15.

A tricky wind blew up in the early shooting, but dropped later in the evening.

National Loop Race Wide Open

Sam Mele Appears Top Rookie in American

NEW YORK, June 18 —(AP)— Two months after opening day the standout American League rookie appears to be Sam Mele of Boston Red Sox, but the National League freshman race is a wide-open scramble with Frank Baumholtz of Cincinnati, Bobby Thomson of New York, Earl Torgeson of Boston and Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn among the top contenders.

Of course, if pitchers are included Clint Hartung of New York Giants would merit top consideration along with Doyle Lade of Chicago, Harry Taylor of Brooklyn and Jim Hearn of St. Loius in the National. The American would have a first class nominee in Frank (Spec) Shea of New York Yankees.

ON THE BASIS of day-in-and-day-out performances the nod in the American goes to Mele, who leaped from the class A Eastern League to the majors in one season. A .321 hitter with good power, Mele also is a fine defensive outfielder.

Strictly on the basis of current batting averages, Baumholtz deserves the honor spot in the National with his .324 average. The Cincinnati recruit is first in the league with 60 hits and tied with Del Ennis of Philidelphia for most doubles, 14.

The Giants' Thomson is more of a long ball hitter than Baumholtz. The New Yorker has his nine home runs and is popular with the Polo Grounds fans.

THOMSON'S .299 average is just one point better than Robinson's .298. Jackie bogged down in two costly slumps but his hitting has picked up recently. With 45 hits he is near the top of the list.

Torgeson is hitting .283 and occasionally rides the beam against lefthanded pitchers, but he has driven home 41 runs and has hit nine out of the park.

Royal Family Among 100,000 Fans

British Horses Sweep Ascot's Opening Card

ASCOT, Berks., Eng., June 18 —(AP)— With the Royal Family and some 100,000 other spectators on hand, the four-day Ascot meeting got off to a brilliant start Tuesday as British thoroughbreds swept aside the French threat and won five of the opening six races.

Beginning with the Queen Anne stakes—named for the ruler who founded Royal Ascot in 1711—British horses took revenge on the French for defeats in the Derby and other major events and roused native hopes for the climactic race of Ascot Thursday's gold cup.

FRENCH horses were entered in the first five races but did not register a single victory. In the sixth, Tudor Minstrel, unbeaten until he finished fourth in the Derby won by the French Pearl Diver, came back to win handily from an all-British field.

The King, who moved the family to Windsor Castle to be near the beautifully landscaped Ascot track, wore a grey morning outfit with the usual grey tophat and a white carnation. The queen was in pale lilac attire.

Princess Elizabeth was dressed in pale blue with a straw hat of the same shade. Princess Margaret, who had not been expected to attend because she is only 16, demurely took her place in time for the third race.

Green Nets Six In Soccer Match

Billy Green's "charmed" toe was pointing in the proper direction last night as the Maple Leafs responded to a 14-3 triumph over Cloverdale in a City Junior Soccer League contest at Clarke Stadium.

Green booted in no less than half a dozen goals. Second place on the list went to Kenny Watson, who had three, while Don Brown was next with two.

Kingsway Fastball On Deck Tonight

A doubleheader fastball attraction is scheduled for Kingsway Park tonight. In the first game Hudson's Bay Intermediates play Maple Leafs in a junior tussle, and Mortons tangle with Walk-Rites in the nightcap.

Eddie Laure, ace righthander of the Morton mound staff, will oppose Betty Dunn, crack fireball hurler for Walk-Rites, in the second game.

The first game gets under way at 7:00 p.m. with the finale slated for 8:30 p.m.

Meredith Tosses A One-Hit Game

Intermediate fastball triumphs were recorded at Kingsway last night by Waterous and Street Railway teams. Waterous had a comparatively easy time of it as they subdued Burns an Co. by a 9-1 margin. Railwaymen tallied once in the extra frame to clip Alberta Poultry Producers 3-2.

C. Meredith on the hill for Waterous served up a smart pitching performance, allowing only one bingle over the route.

AFTER SEVEN innings of battle APP and the railwaymen were deadlocked at 2-2. Then in the top half of the extra inning Hogg walked for Street Railway, reached second on a miscue, and raced home with the winning run on an error.

Score by innings:
Waterous	220	000	3—9		18	4
Burns	001	000	1—2		1	4
Meredith and Murray; Berrowcliff and Warner.
Street Railway	001	010	01—3		6	4
Alberta PP	000	110	00—2		4	0
Nord and Hart; Griffith and McCartney.

Olympic "Door" Opened to Reds

STOCKHOLM, June 18—(AP)—The way is cleared to make Russia eligible for an invitation to the 1948 Olympic games in London by giving her memberships in four world sports-controlling federations, J. Sigfrid Edstrom, president of the International Olympic Committee, announced Tuesday night.

EDSTROM said the International Amateur Athletic Federation, world ruling group in track events, has "forgiven" the Russians for their transgressions up to and including July 1, 1947. The IAAF forbids awards of money to champion and record-breaking athletes, a practice which Russia has followed.

To qualify for an invitation to the 1948 games, all that remains is for Russia to organize committees in the Soviet, the announcement said.

The Russians already belong to the international bodies controlling soccer, wrestling, weight lifting and basketball and have applied for membership in track, swimming, boxing and marksmanship.

Pat Tries His Hand at Fishing

Look Out, Mr. Ashby That Game Warden's Hot on Your Trail

By Dick Jackson
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, June 18 — Oh-oh, the Ontario game warden is hot on the trail of East Edmonton's Social Credit MP Patrick Ashby for "illegally" lassooing and "jigging" fish in Ottawa's Rideau Canal.

Hearing of how Mr. Ashby, failing to entice a bite from mudpout in the canal, attempted to "rope" the fish and then by "jigging" managed to hook one through the eye and land a double-barrelled catch of two, Ontario Game Warden Wayne Robinson gave out with a hot-worded lecture and the threat of prosecution.

"THAT SORT OF business," complained the game warden, "may be alright in Alberta, but it is absolutely illegal under the Ontario fish and game laws. It is covered by specific provisions banning snaring and jigging of fish.

"I was shocked and astounded to hear that an MP even one from the West, would take fish in such an unsporting fashion, and I presume Mr. Ashby's only excuse is that he is a resident of Alberta and ignorant of Ontario law.

"But what to my mind was worse than the illegal act itself was his advise to fellow members of parliament on how to practice this illegal lassooing and jigging. He will have to withdraw it, and publicly too."

Were Mr. Ashby not to withdraw, Warden Robinson would "think seriously" about prosecuting.

MR. ASHBY, as might be expected, was by no means intimidated by this tough talk.

"Well, well," he snorted, "so the game warden is after me. Just like old times. It's been nearly 40 years since the last one was on my trail and he never did catch up to me."

Mr. Ashby is going to stand on his "rights" as a federal MP.

"Things have come to a pretty pass when a poor MP can't do a little fishing in a canal wholly owned and controlled by the federal government without one of Ontario Premier George Drew's many minions horning in."

TRANSPORT MINISTER Lionel Chevrier under whose jurisdiction the Rideau Canal comes, has given Mr. Ashby his "technical" backing.

So the East Edmonton MP has no apology to offer the game warden.

"It wouldn't have happened if the fishing around Ottawa wasn't so bad," he announced. "Why I've caught barrels of better fish in the creeks around Edmonton.

Canadian Tourney Draws U.S. Stars

TORONTO, June 18—(CP)—More fuel to the fire that will rage over the Scarboro Golf Club July 16-19 was added Tuesday with the announcement that seven more top-notch shotmakers would participate in the Canadian open.

New entries are Jimmy Thomson, the Chicagoan with the long drive, Willie Klein of Williston Park, Long Island; Paul Hann, Hilo, Hawaii; Vancouver's Stan Leonard and Fred Wood; Jules Huot, Montreal and Dick Borthwick, Hamilton.

Lew Worsham, who fooled everyone last week by taking the United States open, and Bobby Locke, the South African surprise package, have also said they would be in the running for the $10,000 that goes on the block with the title.

George Fazio of Los Angeles who won last year's open at Montreal's Beaconsfield links, has said he will defend his title.

Cubs Will Meet Eskimos Tonight

Cubs and Eskimos will play a scheduled Big Four Baseball League game at Renfrew Park tonight starting at 7:30.

Doc Cramer, Detroit outfielder, who was with the major league team which played at Renfrew last fall, is at present in Calgary on a scouting trip. The Tigers are said to be particularly interested in pitcher Joe Kanik.

Cramer is expected in Edmonton shortly.

Speed Air Mail Service to West

OTTAWA, June 18 —(CP)—Faster air mail service to Western Canada will become possible July 1 when Trans-Canada Air Lines begin four transcontinental flights daily in each direction over the Great Lakes route from Toronto, the post office department announced Tuesday. The new flights will cut across the northern end of Lake Huron and Lake Superior instead of flying via North Bay and Kapuskasing, Ont. At the same time, several new points will be served, including Port Williams, Swift Current, Sask., Saskatoon and Medicine Hat, Alta. The new routings will provide greatly-improved air mail service to those points and will reduce the flying time between Toronto and Winnipeg by approximately one hour.

NEW YORK, June 18 —(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, former vice-president, said yesterday he had no more speaking engagements and no political plans until the fall." Wallace has been on a speaking tour of the country criticizing the foreign policy of the Truman administration.

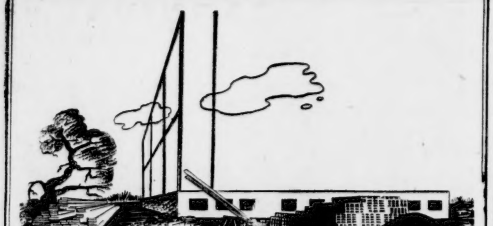
Are we going to leave it like THIS?



Is this our contribution to Edmonton? Will excavations and bare forms represent our gift to the boys and girls of this city? Healthful gymnasium activities can't be conducted on scaffolding. Aged men can't be housed in foundations. Here is a challenge to our generation—a challenge to erect permanent, modern buildings for vital services, a challenge to finish the job!

HOW MUCH IS MY SHARE?

We appreciate every contribution toward these buildings. The amount you give must be determined by your own circumstances. However, we would ask you to keep these facts in mind: not since 1907—over forty years ago—has there been a major appeal by the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., or the Salvation Army for capital funds. You have never before been asked to help build for these agencies; you will probably never be asked again. Your contribution is at least a fifty year investment in the welfare of this city. Don't satisfy yourself with a token gift; help us to build for tomorrow.

A NOTE TO THE WORKERS

We appreciate your contribution of time and energy to the success of this campaign. However, time is short. It is urgent that you go "all-out" to complete your calls. People have reported to us that they are anxious to make their pledge—but no canvasser has called. Upon you, to a large extent, depends the success of the Edmonton United Campaign.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, (CP) — Rye futures prices showed considerable strength on Winnipeg grain exchange Wednesday. Both commission houses and American accounts were on the buying end, which was influenced by the upturn of Chicago grains. Offerings were light and trading moderately active. No export business was reported.

At the close July was up 7⅛ at 3.37 bid; October up at 4⅞ at 2.36¾; December up 5¼ at 2.20⅛ asked. Cash rye, 3.48. Class two wheat prices — for export to countries other than Britain — were: No. 1 northern 2.53; No. 2 northern 2.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, (AP) — All grains scored substantial gains in an active market on the board of trade Wednesday. Heavy rains overnight in parts of the midwest created aggressive buying of corn and oats. Good cash demand for the yellow grain and a forecast of further rains within the next 24 hours added to the buying enthusiasm. In the spot market corn sold up to 2.18 a bushel. Export houses bought wheat, which also was aided again by Tuesday's announcement of new government loan prices.

Wheat closed 3½ to 4 cents higher, July 2.16⅛ - ½, corn was 4¾ - 6¼ higher, July 1.93¼ - ½, and oats were 2¼ - 3⅝ higher, July 94½ - ¾. Cash wheat: none.

U.S. HOGS HEAVIER

WASHINGTON, (AP) — United States livestock farmers, taking advantage of a favorable relationship between feed and animal prices, are holding to their practice of fattening hogs to above-normal weights before sending them to market.

Latest agriculture department reports show that hogs are being sold at weights averaging between 250 and 253 pounds each. This compares with an average of 241 pounds for the 1939-45 period.

Ask Floor Price Be Set On Butter

OTTAWA.— Immediate announcement of a definite floor price for butter was urged upon the government on June 12, by a delegation from the Dairy Farmers of Canada headed by J. J. E. McCague, of Alliston, president of the organization, who were joined with a delegation from the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

The delegation expressed appreciation to the federal minister of agriculture for the granting by the government of two of the requests which had been made to the government on May 10, namely, the suspension of ceiling prices on dairy products, and rationing of butter and concentrated products.

However the delegation urged upon the government the need for announcing a definite floor price, as quickly as possible, in order that the trade would know exactly the position they were in with respect to future trading, and in order that the butter producer would be protected from exploitation in the matter of price.

Support Of Wheat By U.S. Renewed

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The United States agriculture department announced Tuesday it will support grower prices of wheat at a national average of $1.80 a bushel during the rest of this month.

This average is between 10 and 15 cents below current market prices. Levels at which the department will support wheat for the period beginning July 1 until the 1949 crop becomes available will be announced early next month.

The department is required by law to support prices at not less than 90 percent of the parity price of the grain at the beginning of the marketing year July 1.

Premier Gold Ltd. To Be Liquidated

VANCOUVER, (CP) — Stockholders of Premier Gold Mining Ltd., at a special meeting here Tuesday voted by a margin of 16,000 to liquidate the company which has assets of more than $1,000,000 in cash. Of 2,720,880 share-votes cast, 884,622 were opposed.

Formed 28 years ago in British Columbia, Premier ceased operation of its own mines sometime ago, but acted as a holding company for mines in B. C., Ontario, Australia, and Saudi-Arabia.

It would have required 25 percent for defeat. A group of B. C. shareholders had opposed liquidation, urging the company use its assets in exploration work.

Under the liquidation plan, Mr. Goodwin said the cash assets, amounting to about 20 cents a share, will be distributed.

Premier holds 80 percent of the stock of Toburn Mine at Kirkland Lake, Ont., 60 percent of Silbak in B. C., 45 percent of Big Bell in Australia and 12 percent of Saudi in Saudi-Arabia. Shareholders will still maintain an interest in the present holdings.

Manitoba Shorthorn Bull Brings $5,000

WINNIPEG, (CP)—Kelburn Climax, young Shorthorn bull from the Richardson stock farms at St. Norbert, 10 miles south of Winnipeg, has been sold to the P. F. Law farm at Weston, Ont., for $5,000, a record for a Manitoba-bred Shorthorn.

Kelburn Climax, one year old next Aug. 1, was sired by Mount Banker, a $20,000 bull bought by the Richardson farm at the 1945 Perth, Scotland, sale and the dam was also imported from Scotland. Another Shorthorn bull sired by Banker, Kelburn Command, also is being sent to the L. B. Beath farms at Oshawa.

This is the first time for Manitoba to export rather than import Shorthorns. A. H. O. Colbert, formerly of Edmonton, is manager of the Richardson stock farms.

FOR PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE

He wanted to pay the Bank

A BONUS!

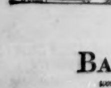
June 20th—John J. Veroba of Lampman, Sask., applied to the Bank of Montreal for a loan of $2,000 to purchase a threshing combine. His proposition was sound . . . and the loan was made.

John Veroba's new machine was delivered on June 25th. Ten days later, with his own crops still four weeks from harvesting, he set out for Sharon Springs, Kansas. With his new combine he worked for the farmers there and in the neighbouring communities for one month to the day.

In the meantime his own crops were ripening. Early in August he turned northward to Lampman, and on his arrival, August 11th, immediately remitted to us the full $2,000 he had borrowed. His work had given him back the entire purchase price of his combine!

The total interest charge was $12.60. So pleased was this customer to possess his own combine free of all debt, and to commence his own harvesting with a happy and easy mind, that he wished to pay the Bank of Montreal a bonus to mark his appreciation.

The Bank, of course, declined the bonus, but is gladly accepting the expression of John Veroba's thanks in the form of his permission to tell his story in this advertisement.



This case is typical of the assistance which the Bank of Montreal is extending to progressive people in every walk of life and demonstrates how it makes true its promise: "When you ask for a loan at the B of M, you do not ask a favour."

If you need money, see your nearest B of M manager today. If your proposition is sound, there's money for you at the B of M.

United Campaign Reaches $109,500

Donations received at campaign headquarters of the Edmonton United Campaign brought their total donations to $109,500 at Wednesday noon. The objective of the campaign, in their drive for building funds for the YMCA, YWCA and Salvation Army is $550,000. Of this amount the YMCA will receive $330,000 and the YWCA and Salvation Army $100,000.

Employes of C. Woodward Ltd. donated the sum of $5,000. The T. Eaton Co. (Western) Ltd. contributed $1,500. Numerous other employes' groups are active in raising contributions for the campaign.

Interest among the Chinese merchants and people is being shown by contributions. Under the leadership of Lee K. Yuen and Victor Mah, substantial amounts are being raised and as totals appear the contributions from the Chinese area will add up to a substantial amount.

Every indication of the fourth report of the workers being heartening one is given by officials of the campaign. Officials state that there are some real amounts in the offing which can and will materialize shortly.

The special gifts committee is functioning and reports of their efforts are beginning to show up in substantial contributions to be reported.

Increased attendance at report meetings is evidence of a growing interest on the part of the workers. With the first one hundred thousand dollars actually signed up the goal for tonight is to exceed the second hundred thousand dollars.

Two Persons Hurt In Traffic Mishaps

Two traffic collisions on city streets Tuesday night and Wednesday morning caused injuries to two persons, and resulted in one man being arrested on a charge of dangerous driving.

Injured were Walter Bernas, 9902 76 avenue, and Bessie Tkaczyk, 9689 99 street. Neither was reported to be in serious condition.

Bernas was operating his motorcycle on McDougall hill about 7.46 p.m. Tuesday when he collided with a trolley bus. He said he attempted to turn away from the bus but the bike would not respond. Driver of the bus was Murry L. Saunders, 11202 94 street.

Bernas suffered a severe laceration to the left leg and numerous bruises and abrasions about his body. He was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital in a passing taxi and later was removed to the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion.

Police said Miss Tkaczyk was injured when the parked car in which she was passenger with Roy Belair, 10034 110 street, was struck head-on by an auto operated by Donald Campbell Gordon, 7405 81 avenue.

Gordon is reported by police to have been travelling south on the Low Level bridge, and when making the turn at the bottom of Scona hill, he swung wide striking the auto parked in front of the Scona Bend apartments at 98 avenue and 99 street. The accident occurred about 7 a.m. Wednesday.

The woman suffered injuries to the knee and elbow and was removed to the Misericordia hospital for treatment. Gordon was arrested on a charge of dangerous driving.

Motorists Fined Traffic Offensives

Nine offenders of the city traffic laws paid out fines in city police court Wednesday morning, following their pleas of guilty before Magistrate A. I. Millar.

Donald C. Gordon, 7405 81 avenue, charged with dangerous driving following an accident just south of the Low Level bridge on Wednesday morning paid the largest amount. He was assessed $25 and costs or 30 days.

One motorist paid $5 and costs for having inadequate brakes on his vehicle. Two paid $5 and costs for failing to have their vehicles equipped with a muffler, and four drew $1 fines for not being able to produce a drivers license at the request of city police.

Yvonne Chalifoux and Nora Callfare, were found guilty on vagrancy charges and were sentenced to 60 days imprisonment in Fort Saskatchewan. The two were found on the city streets, had no job and no money.

New Principal of Alberta College Named

148 Students Attend Graduation Ceremony

In a commencement address filled with the lingering memories of 30 years' association with Alberta College, 34 of them as principal, the Rev. Dr. F. S. McCall said "farewell" as students, teachers, and board members of the college at the 44th annual commencement exercises in McDougall United Church Wednesday afternoon.

It was announced during the ceremony that the new principal of the college would be the Rev. G. Harrison Villett, Vancouver, a former student at the college and pastor of McDougall Church.

Dr. McCall spoke to 148 graduating students, one of the largest graduating classes in the history of Alberta College. Commercial students numbered 102, and there were 46 Grade 12 students, some of whom have begun writing department of education final examinations.

There were 64 award and prize-winning graduates. Present among the hundreds of guests at the commencement exercises were many who secured business positions and left the college before graduation.

With the memorable words of Edwin Markham's "Live and let live was the cry of the old . . . live and help live is the cry of the new," Dr. McCall called on his students to go out into the world and play their part.

"EDUCATION SHOULD result in the development of character," said Dr. McCall, and should not merely consist of intellectual mechanics, memorization of facts.

"The future will test what these students have gained," he said.

Reviewing the purposes of education, Dr. McCall divided the aims of education into three main groups: firstly, as merely ornamental; secondly, as commercial or utilitarian, and thirdly, and most important, as creative. He stated that in this modern age, too much emphasis has been placed on the commercial aspect, and not nearly enough on the possibilities of creation and achievement as a result of education.

Stating that 50,000 students have passed through the doors of Alberta College, Dr. McCall noted the impact on a province the size of Alberta which such a number of students would have.

MENTIONING THAT never less than 25 different nationalities have been represented at the college in any one year, Dr. McCall said that people of the world should find it possible to live together harmoniously.

In his last address to a graduating class, Dr. McCall reminisced on his 39 years with Alberta College, and recalled some of the outstanding students he has taught. He expressed the deep feeling which he stated he will always hold for the college.

Diplomas to commercial students were presented by W. T. Henry, chairman of the Alberta College board. Faculty members and guests presented awards and prizes to the 64 top students.

Valedictory addresses were delivered by Jacqueline Driver and Angus Lamont, who reviewed student activities during their studies at the college and expressed their regret at having to leave the institution of which they had grown so fond.

SOLO WAS OFFERED by W. J. Hendra, of the college's music department. Organist was Herbert Wild, and chaplain was the Rev. Wesley Bainbridge.

Annual college report was given by W. T. Henry, chairman of the graduation exercises. Noting this year's record registration of students, Mr. Henry stated that a large number were ex-service men and women.

"Several students this year have secured positions in the diplomatic service, and six have volunteered for missionary work in South Africa," said Mr. Henry.

Reviewing courses taught at the college, he announced that Russian will be added to the course of studies in the near future. "I think that the more common peoples of the world know of one another's language, customs, culture, and philosophy, the more we will appreciate one another, and the greater the chance for permanent peace," he said.

REGARDING THE activity of the college music faculty, Mr. Henry stated that at the recent provincial musical festival, students from the college won one trophy, five scholarships, 41 first prizes, and 14 second prizes.

He thanked the faculty members for their work during the last few years, and commented, "Teachers are the keystone of the edifice. . . ."

". . . No student who has earnestly desired an education has ever been turned away because of his or her lack of funds to pay their tuition," stated Mr. Henry.

Remarking on Dr. McCall's retirement, Mr. Henry offered best wishes to Dr. and Mrs. McCall on behalf of Alberta College. He reviewed Dr. McCall's work at the college, and referring to his great success as principal of one of Canada's leading educational institutions, said "Any man who can make a quarter of a million dollars out of a business, such as Alberta College, is a tycoon of finance."

HE SAID that during Dr. McCall's many years as principal the college had paid off $50,000 in mortgages; constructed and paid for a unit of the girls' residence, costing $100,000, and had amassed $150,000 in the bank "for future development."

"During Dr. McCall's 34 years as principal, he also made a great contribution to educational and cultural life in this community," concluded Mr. Henry.

Order Would Not Bar Lumberjacks

Members of the Canadian Order of Foresters are not lumberjacks, although a woodsman would not be barred from holding membership providing he was of a good character.

Robin Hood, the famed benevolent brigand of Sherwood Forest is the traditional first high chief ranger of the order.

King David is spiritual leader because he was persecuted for his belief in God and because he made service to his fellowman his main earthly labor.

David fled to the wilderness before the persecution of Saul and there gathered around him men of like ideals.

Liberty, benevolence and concord is the motto of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Robin Hood, while his tactics were not lawful, was the champion of the oppressed in medieval times. He too, was forced to flee from his enemies to Sherwood Forest, where he helped the poor by skilfully opposing the tyrants of that day.

That is why the colors of the Canadian Order of Foresters are Lincoln Green.

Foresters Re-Elect High Chief Ranger

W. M. Couper, KC, of Montreal, leader of the Canadian Order of Foresters for several years, will continue as high chief ranger for another year. He received an acclamation to the post during nominations for officers in the next lodge year, held Wednesday morning during a business session of the 68th annual convention of the order in the Macdonald hotel.

The full slate of officers will be announced following elections Thursday morning.

Homestead Inspector Retires from Post

Retirement from the provincial government service of H. S. McCowan, 10519, Saskatchewan drive, announced Wednesday, brings to a close 33 years of service as homestead inspector for the federal government, and as land inspector for the provincial department of lands and mines.

Mr. McCowan first came to Alberta in 1906 and settled in the Dunstable district.

In 1915 he was appointed homestead land inspector by the Dominion government, and in 1930 joined the provincial government staff in a similar capacity. He was made chief land inspector in 1934, a post which he occupied until his resignation.

Details of Edmonton's civic centre development, and the progress made in that development will be the subject of an address by Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect, at a meeting to be held Thursday evening at the South Side Library at 8 o'clock.

An invitation is extended to all club groups and organizations interested in the civic development project to attend the meeting.

Conservatives To Meet Thursday

The Edmonton East and West Progressive Conservative associations will hold a joint meeting on Thursday evening at the Club Roosevelt, 9928 Jasper avenue, at which C. C. Miller, MP for Portage La Prairie, will be the principal speaker.

Plans for the re-organization of the two ridings, and the question of provincial politics will be discussed, and several other matters are scheduled for discussion.

Mr. Miller is in Alberta attending a nominating convention at Wetaskiwin Thursday afternoon at which the Progressive Conservative party's candidate for that riding will be nominated.

Service of Designation Held For Miss Hazel Reaveley

In a service of designation at First Presbyterian Church, Monday evening, Miss Hazel Reaveley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Reaveley, 10730 114 street, was officially appointed to her foreign mission field. Leaving for Jhangsi district, United Provinces, of central India later this summer, Miss Reaveley will join Miss Edith Magee, who inspired her with a desire for missionary work two years ago.

The moderator of the Presbytery, the Rev. John Herbison, pastor of Strathcona Church, presided at the service of worship. Others officiating were the Rev. Glenn Campbell, Rupert Street Church; the Rev. J. Gordon Troyer, St. Andrews Church; M. S. McLean, Westmount Church, and the Rev. Donald McInnes, of Milverton, Ont.

Choosing "Christ and Frontier" as his text, the Rev. J. MacBeath Miller, First Presbyterian Church, pointed out that today the frontiers of illiteracy, disease, and economic failure were the frontiers of sin to the Christian. Drawing from his own experiences in India, he reminded the designee that "every day you will live the cross of Jesus Christ—your reward will be to see conversion. You are enlisted in the greatest army in the world, the Christian army."

On behalf of the council executive of the Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Robert MacMicking presented Miss Reaveley with a Bible. Later a reception was held in the social room, where gifts useful for her five-year term in India were presented to the guest of honor.

"Missionary work is one of the fields of greatest opportunity for young people today, for the need is great in every vocation," was the comment of Miss Reaveley later. She said that "the decision to be a missionary should be thought through very carefully. The choice should be a realistic, careful decision, not based on any "romantic illusions."

Born in Fort William, she was president of the Young People's Union of First Presbyterian Church in 1943. Two years later Miss Reaveley represented the Young Women's Missionary Society of Northern Alberta at Knox Theological College in Toronto.

One afternoon at the conference, Miss Edith Magee, of Vancouver, a field worker home on furlough from India, addressed the delegates. This was the decisive influence in Miss Reaveley's life. Although she had already dedicated herself to Christian work, Miss Magee's stories of conditions in India pledged her young listener to the Women's Missionary Society. Today Miss Reaveley will leave to work side by side with her good friend in the Jhangsi district.

Miss Reaveley received her general training in the missionary and deaconess school in Toronto. She has just recently returned from an eight months' course in specialized missionary work at Scarritt Christian College in Nashville, Tenn. As a prospective leader in India, she was taught the fundamentals of the various religions of that country, and social anthropology—that is an evaluation of India's culture in its own terms.

Awaiting orders to sail for India after July, Miss Reaveley hopes to specialize in teaching illiterate adults. Working in city of Jhangsi in the heart of an "outcast" population, the young girl will find fertile ground to implement her ideal of introducing Christian literature and bring constructive reading into print. With the background of a journalism course taken at Scarritt College and the successful publication of her poems in the Alberta Poetry Magazine, the qualities of a warm personality, clear level-headedness, and a great interest in the welfare of people, Miss Reaveley has a winning combination which forecasts every success in her mission to India.

Reynolds to Back Flight Over Poles

CHICAGO, June 18. — (AP) — Milton S. Reynolds, wealthy pen manufacturer who flew around the world in April, Monday announced plans for a globe-girdling flight around both poles "about Aug. 1." Reynolds said at a press conference the new trip would not be non-stop, and that it would be "purely scientific." The plane, a converted bomber, will carry "10 or 12" scientists, and will be piloted by Capt. William Odom, skipper of the first trip. Reynolds said he did not plan to go along. The route for the proposed flight will be from Washington to Greenland and thence over the North Pole to Yakutsk, Siberia; to Invercargill, N. Z., and across the South Pole to Argentina, Santiago, Chile; Balboa, C. Z., and back to Washington.

Describes Operations Order of Foresters

The Canadian Order of Foresters, with 40,000 members from coast to coast, has a heavy stake in Alberta's future with $1,600,000 invested in provincial bonds, $600,000 in City of Edmonton bonds and $190,000 in Calgary debentures, W. M. Couper, KC, Montreal, high chief ranger of the fraternal organization, said in an address to approximately 400 attending a convention banquet in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday.

THE BANQUET was held at the close of first business sessions of a three-day national convention being held in Edmonton, the 68th since the founding of the organization in Canada in 1879.

Chief speaker at the dinner, Mr. Couper gave some revealing figures concerning the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Since the order was founded in the Dominion $43,500,000 has been paid to fraternal insurance beneficiaries. The organization now has an accumulated fund of $22,000,000.

The order had 1,500 of its members in uniform during the last war, 77 of whom were killed in battle. No dues or insurance premiums were collected from members in the service and full benefits were paid to beneficiaries of those who died in uniform.

Mr. Couper said the order is very proud of its record during Victory Loans, having led all Canadian fraternal organizations with a total of more than $6,000,000 subscribed.

"THE WONDERFUL principles of fraternity, of treating your fellowman as you would have him treat you, have been carried out by the Canadian Order of Foresters," Mr. Couper declared.

The fraternal spirit is even more important than the practical side of the order, the high chief ranger said. He hoped this spirit would be carried across the oceans and permeate the gatherings of the heads of nations striving to find a peaceful way of life for the peoples of the world. Mr. Couper made a brief address in French to French-speaking delegates.

Because of an unavoidable delay in the banquet schedule, Premier Ernest Manning and Mayor Harry Ainlay, who were to have spoken, cancelled their addresses to permit lodge officers more time to describe the work of the order.

Alf P. VanSomeren, high secretary, told of the great scope of fraternal benefit insurance as a stabilizing factor for the family in these critical, uncertain times.

VICTOR BEDARD, executive member, made a brief address in French.

James Gall, district deputy for Edmonton, was chairman.

A minstrel show, staged by members of the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce, and a dance, followed the dinner speeches.

Business sessions of the convention will continue Wednesday and Thursday.

The Book of Knowledge

This and the following articles are taken from the Book of Knowledge and can be clipped for saving in a reference book.

FOUNDING OF MARYLAND AND PENNSYLVANIA

Previous articles have told of the early English settlers in Virginia and New England, and of the Dutch colony along the Hudson River which became New York; when it was seized by the British in 1664, another English settlement was founded in the country around Chesapeake Bay. This became the colony of Maryland.

George Calvert, the first Lord Baltimore, was responsible for founding it. He had been converted to the Roman Catholic faith, and he hoped that the colony he planned would be a land of peace and prosperity for English Catholics, who were persecuted at this time in England. He persuaded King Charles I to make him lord proprietor of a large tract of land north to Virginia for safety. For a time the Puritans got complete control of the assembly and would not allow Catholics to have any power. Finally, the fourth Lord Baltimore turned Protestant, and in 1715 his rights were restored.

Meanwhile the colony of Pennsylvania had been founded by William Penn, son of a distinguished English admiral who was a friend of the Royal Family. To the disgust of his family, young William had become a Quaker. The Quakers at that time were very much despised in England. Nevertheless, King Charles II liked William Penn and, in 1681, he gave him a large tract of American land west of the Delaware River. Penn and his descendants were to own it, just as the Calvert family owned Maryland. It is said that the King himself chose the name Pennsylvania, which means Penn's Forest.

William Penn gave a great deal of thought to the sort of colonists he wanted. Many English Quakers came, as well as Scotch, Irish and Welsh, but Penn encouraged farmers and craftsmen from the Rhine Valley, Switzerland and Sweden.

He managed the colonization well. He made friends with the Indians, he encouraged the more useful kind of settlers, and he made wise laws. No one was to be troubled for any matter of religion, the punishments for crime were not harsh, and men could get land on easy terms.

In 1683, the city of Philadelphia, which means Brotherly Love, was laid out, and soon grew to be a handsome town with broad streets and brick houses.

Where the Schuylkill and Delaware Rivers meet, William Penn and his colonists picked the site for Philadelphia, founded in 1682. It soon became a handsome town of broad streets and brick houses. Welsh and Germans flocked to the "green country town."

Ex-Jap Officers Paraded and Shot

By ROBERT CLURMAN

SHANGHAI, June 18.—(HUP)—A bloodthirsty crowd of several thousand persons Tuesday paraded two former Japanese officers through jammed streets in downtown Shanghai, and finally took them into a muddy field where they were shot.

The crowd milled about within a few feet of the spot where the condemned Japanese knelt. After executioners fired simultaneous pistol shots into the men's heads the crowd swarmed over their bodies.

The executed prisoners were Capt. Haruchi Yonemura, known as "The Wolf of Changshu," and Jiro Shimota, the "Tiger of Kiangying."

The "Wolf" was convicted of burying alive more than 100 Chinese, while the "Tiger" was found guilty of shooting several Chinese on the day of Japan's surrender, and of plunder and rape.

The American Contract Bridge League is dedicated to the fight against cancer. One of its well-known activities is the children's unit at Memorial Hospital in New York, which is devoted exclusively to the treatment of tumors and cancer in children. If she had received a spade opening on today's hand, her contract would have gone down to almost certain defeat. But the three of clubs was opened, and Mrs. Gardner did not make the mistake of winning the first club trick. She let East hold the trick with the queen, and East was powerless then to get the two quick spade tricks.

If Mrs. Gardner had won the first trick with the ace of clubs, she could have picked up the trumps, but when she finessed the diamond, East would have won.

Comb French Town For Maniac Poisoner

PARIS, June 18 — (Reuters) — French detectives and poison experts last night were combing the small town of Macon, in central France, for a maniac poisoner described as a modern Borgia, believed responsible for the mysterious deaths of 40 people during the last four years.

Dr. M. Spindler, inspector of the health department of Macon hospital where 17 of the 40 victims are reported to have died, said an arrest was expected before the end of the week.

An autopsy, carried out on hospital patients who died under suspicious circumstances, disclosed the presence of atropine in the organs.

Soviet Attitude Of Naughty Child

"Russia's attitude is that of a naughty child," asserted Dr. Walter Johns classic professor, University of Alberta, in an address "Canada and the International Scene" delivered at a Gyro club luncheon in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday.

A common question in the world today, he said, is "What about Russia?" Many speakers have explained that there exist two poles in the world today—the Russian—and the American.

Dr. Johns pointed out certain facts the world should know about Russia in order to understand her.

One point, he said, is Russian history. Many features of the old Russian order prevail today. It is not Soviet imperialism that exists, he explained, but Russian imperialism.

Russia still is Russia, he asserted.

and things regarded as Communistic are Russian. Dr. Johns quoted a passage from John Fisher's book, "Seared Men in the Kremlin", where it is stated Russian leaders are suffering from fear—fear of their own people.

He explained that Russians tend to build a distrust toward capitalists and to expand Russian imperialism.

Speaking of Canada, Dr. Johns said the country should not be made a satellite of Great Britain or the United States, but should be a leading power among intermediate powers of the world.

the NEW CAKE and PASTRY FLOUR
that's the talk of the West

THROUGHOUT THE WEST, women are all excited about the wonderful cakes, pies and cookies they're making with the new Monarch Flour. They marvel at the light, moist, fluffy texture and the uniformly excellent results they get.

And no wonder! This flour is the result of a search that's been going on for years for the very best cake and pastry flour that could be made. Our research scientists have studied every kind of wheat that grows. Our dietitians have baked thousands of cakes and kept a careful record of the results.

The final results of the long years of research are brought to your kitchen in Monarch Flour. It's made from a special soft wheat that is ideal for the purpose. It's milled by experts according to methods which research has shown to give the best results.

We know that once you try Monarch Flour it will be your friend for life. So get a bag today, and ... happy "bakeday" to you.

BUTTERFLY CUP CAKES

Yield—12 average-sized cup cakes.

Oven temperature—moderately hot, 375°. Butter 12 average-sized muffin rings. Sift, then measure 1¼ cups Monarch Pastry Flour; add 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Sift together once; return to sifter.

Cream until soft 7 tablespoons shortening (or a mixture of shortening and margarine); gradually work in 2/3 cup fine granulated sugar, and cream well. Add 1 egg and beat well; add to creamed mixture, a little at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Measure ½ cup milk; add ½ teaspoon vanilla. Sift the dry ingredients into creamed mixture, alternately with additions of flavored milk, making 2 dry and 2 liquid additions and combining lightly after each. Half fill prepared muffin rings with batter. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375°, about 20 minutes. Cool cup cakes, cut a thin slice from top of each and scoop out a little of the inside. Fill with whipped cream, and replace tops. Ice with orange glace icing, cut in half, and insert as pictured to represent "wings". Add one more dab of icing or whipped cream or a bit of fruit for the "body".

For each cupful of hard wheat flour required in your old recipe, simply add 2½ tablespoonfuls when you use Monarch Flour. This addition is required because, by actual weight, Monarch Flour is lighter. In every 7-pound bag of Monarch Flour, there are seven cups more flour than in seven times the weight of hard-wheat flour

Why Grow Old?

Exercises like this are valuable and fun for persons like Actress Joan Winfield, above. Think how much more fun they'd be if a whole family took its exercises together.

By Josephine Lowman

I had a letter from a reader the other day which promoted an interesting idea. She said, "Would you please give me and my family an exercise routine? My husband and I are past 40, my oldest daughter is 17, my son is 9, and my younger daughter is 6.

"I had the bright idea while convalescing these past few days and reading your columns in our paper. My whole family needs a little exercise. Wouldn't it be nice if we could do it together at a certain time each day? My 13-year-old has 'angel wings.' My girls take dancing lessons twice a week and my son runs all day, but Mama and Papa would like to see us all form the habit of constructive daily exercise."

It seems to me that more families should have such routine. It would be like having a class, and would not be boring as it is to do these alone. I would suggest that the family purchase a few records so the routine can be done to music. Waltz time or two-four or four-four rhythms could be used.

For daughter's "angel wings" the following exercises would be helpful. These might well be included in the routine for the entire family because we all have a tendancy toward slumping.

1. Stand erect with the feet comfortably apart. Drop the trunk and head forward from the waist and let the arms swing down. Now raise the trunk and bring the arms to sidewise, shoulder height position. Pull back with the arms, palms facing forward, and lower the head backward. Repeat ten times. This exercise combines waist shoulder and neck exercises. Be sure the arms are raised to exactly shoulder height position, so you feel the pull across the chest.

2. Stand tall and make large circles with the arms, reaching high over the head and pulling back as the arms come sideways downward. Rise high on your toes as your arms move up and lower the heels as the arms come down. Again, you have a shoulder blade exercise and also a leg exercise.

Everyone needs to tone the abdominal muscles: Lie on your back with your arms overhead on the floor. Bend both knees and grasp the knees with the hands. Arms and legs return to starting position. Stretch out on the floor. These are exercises which fit the entire family.

If I had more space today I would outline exercises for different needs, more in detail. This family idea is so interesting that I am going to give a week to it in this column in the near future.

Parents express two attitudes about discipline. Some parents tend to feel discipline is something they should avoid and if they do not punish they are good parents. Parents who have the other attitude act upon impulse, spank the child and call that discipline.

Both attitudes are in error. The first in the assumption that any child can grow up without some punishments. The second by assuming that spanking is the only effective one. Every parent knows that she is governed by hundreds of rules and regulations which she cannot break with impunity. She should realize her child cannot possibly grow up without encountering taboos, without perpetrating behavior which demands some recognition and often some punishment.

But ANYTHING a parent does which prevents a child from acting as he should like to act is a discipline. It may be nothing but a reproof or criticism. It may be the impassioned plea not to act that way if he loves her, his mother. It is obvious that there are dozens of ways in which we frustrate a child's natural behavior.

Every child, too, is subject to the inhibiting influence of his parent's conduct. If both parent and child act in honest, truthful, mutuerly unselfish ways, such behavior tends to check the child's dishonest, untruthful, unmannerly and selfish ways. There are disciplinary forces which mold the child into a pattern that is socially desirable.

Miss H.H.H. believes most parents employ spanking. She says, "How can a person of limited intelligence think up just the right psychological treatment for a tempestuous boy of four years every time there is a crisis? Spanking is a makeshift, but aren't most of our acts? Most children are conditioned to look upon spanking as a normal expression of the parents' disapproval and as a sort of payment for their crime. I spank because I get results, as do lots of others. Let's not be hypocritical."

Why no. I have found that the vast majority of parents do not get results. It is quite true that the child feels because he has paid for his crime he is under no obligation not to repeat it again, if he is willing to take the same medicine. This is not good training in why he should behave as a responsible individual.

It is just as easy to use deprivations, to isolate him temperarily from companions and family, to explain your disapproval and to act in right ways yourself. Yet a combination of such disciplines used routinely gets better results than spanking and with much less wear and tear on the parents' emotions, not to mention the child's.

NO FUSS, PLEASE

A woman of modern acquired wealth was discussing with an artist the portrait of herself which she had taken to qualify.

"Shall I paint you in evening dress?" the artist inquired.

"Oh, no," replied the woman, "don't make any fuss at all—just wear your overalls."

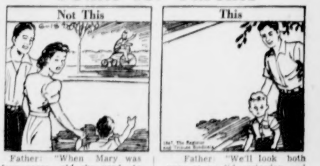
Points for Parents



Father: "When Mary was four years old she used to cross the street alone and your sister wrote that her Bill does, so you should let James try it, too."

Father: "We'll look both ways as we did yesterday, and will wait if a car is coming. Then after we look again, you may say when it's time to cross."

The age at which a child can cross a street alone with safety depends upon the sort of street it is, the steadiness of the child, and the consistency of his parent's teaching.
